BRITISH BATTLE FRENCH FLEET TO KEEP IT FROM AXIS POWERS

Japanese Official Hits U. S. Policy

TELLS WAY TO END TENSION IN FAR EAST

Naval Spokesman Warns on Obstruction of Japan's Action in China.

QUOTES KNOX STAND

Declares Neither Country In Position Now To Provoke War.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—A Japanese naval spokesman asserted today that United States abandonment of "unwarrantable interference with and obstruction of" Japan's policies on the Far Eastern continent is among the "concrete facts and deeds" needed to relieve "grave concern" among the Japanese people over American-Japanese relations

Other American "deeds" in which he said the Japanese would have more confidence than "mere verbal gestures" would include.

1. Abandonment of assistance to the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

2 Lifting of economic pressure against Japan.

Statements in Washington he said, show "it is not advisable for the United States to attempt to intervene in Far Eastern issues beyond legitimate bounds."

He added, however, that "Japan likewise is not in a position to provoke the United States fleet and therefore always has pursued a policy of non-provocation."

(In Washington, during questioning of Col. Frank Knox Tuesday by the senate naval affairs committee, Chairman Walsh said naval officers had informed the committee that the United States could not successfully wage war alone on Japan, and that the aid of Great Britain and France would be needed.

MOCK WARFARE

R. O. T. C. Students Open Fire In July 4th 'Battle.'

LAS CRUCES, N. M.—(AP)—A mock "blitzkrieg" celebrated the Fourth of July today in the Rio Grande valley of southern New Mexico, only a few miles from U. S.-Mexico international border.

Thousands of blanks were fired from anti-aircraft and field guns and smaller weapons, simulating actual war for 1,000 students of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, who are completing summer training periods.

The attack opened five days of maneuvers for the R. O. T. C. students from colleges of New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Colorado and Oklahoma, who have been in camps at Fort Logan, Colo., Fort Sill, Okla., and Camp Bullis, Tex

RIOT HALTED

25 Persons Arrested In Anti-Nazi Demonstrations.

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—Twenty-five persons were arrested last night when anti-Nazi demonstrators tried to prevent exhibition of a German film, "Siegfried Line," at the Central cinema. Police dispersed other groups which attempted street demonstrations later.

Document That Established Our Freedom

One Fourth of July—and the United States of America celebrates the 164th anniversary of its independence, an independence made possible by a form of government that has stood the test of time. Above left, George Washington, first president of the United States and leader of the revolutionary forces which freed the American colonies from England. DEFENSE MADE KEYNOTE FOR U. S. BIRTHDAY

New 5-Billion-Dollar Program and Compulsory Training Measures Coming Up.

ROOSEVELT MESSAGE DUE

Expected to Ask Congress to Speed Plan to Conscript Nation's Manpower.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Billions more for defense was the word today as the United States observed the 164th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence and there were indications that the immense new preparedness request would be followed by recommendations for a youth training program.

Notice that a new $5,000,000,000 defense program was in the making came from the White House yesterday after President Roosevelt and his chief defense advisers gave it their approval.

Matching in size the $5,000,000,000 already voted for the current fiscal year, the supplementary plans were mapped to hasten the nation toward the goal of a 50,000-plane airforce and to produce tanks, artillery and other equipment in mass production quantities for the expanding army

The immense expansion proposal will be placed before congress next week, officials said. Congress probably will be asked to make outright appropriations for about half the new program, and to provide authorizations for the remainder, leaving the additional funds to be voted later.

With this new defense message from the president in prospect, well-informed legislators said that within 10 days Mr. Roosevelt was likely to send congress another communication—on the subject of compulsory national service for the country's youth.

One compulsory service pro-

BOMBERS FOILED

Italian Planes Driven Off By Alexandria Defenses.

ALEXANDRIA—(AP)—Five Italian planes attempted to raid Alexandria in broad daylight today but were driven out to sea No damage or casualties here were reported

About 200 bombs were dropped

An air raid alarm, Alexandria's first since June 22, was sounded at 7:50 a. m. as the invaders were sighted at Abukir.

They flew toward Alexandria harbor but anti-aircraft batteries drove them off with heavy fire.

The "all clear" signal was sounded at 8:45 a. m.

Federal Food Standards Adopted For State Institutions.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Federal purity and food-value standards were adopted today for the 10,000-pound-a-week butter purchases of the state welfare department's 23 institutions.

The joint action of the state welfare and agriculture departments followed a similar move regarding the purchase of eggs, which now are required to pass federal inspection

QUITE A PARTY

Set Of Upper Teeth Found With Empty Bottle.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—From the available evidence it must have been quite a party.

A man cutting weeds near Mrs. Grace Butts' tourist home found an empty whiskey bottle and nearby a set of false upper teeth.

Mrs. Butts is holding the dentures for the owner.

Naval Action Continues In North Africa

Nazi Submarine Sinks British Prison Ship Carrying 1,500 Germans and Italians to Canada; 986 Lives Reported Lost.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—Adolf Hitler gave the French navy virtual permission to do anything it pleases against the British fleet, authorized German sources said today. A communique referred to the scuttling of such French ships as cannot escape seizure by the British as one measure permitted by Hitler's order.

BULLETIN

GENEVA—(AP)—The Petain government of France today ordered French warships at Alexandria harbor to fight their way home after hostilities broke out between British and French fleets in the Mediterranean. The British opened fire on units of the French fleet at Mers El-Kebir naval base near Oran, Algeria, after the French commander refused to comply with a six-hour ultimatum to scuttle his ships or surrender them to the British. The Petain government also directed French warships to stop all British merchantmen encountered on the high seas.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The British navy battled French warships in North Africa today as Great Britain finally took action to seize the powerful French fleet—second largest in Europe—or otherwise prevent it from falling into German or Italian hands.

All French warships in British ports were successfully placed "under British control" early yesterday, the government announced, with "only two casualties," these due to "a misunderstanding."

But in Africa the French admiral in command at Oran "refused to accept" conditions proposed to keep his warships out of Axis hands, the government said, and as a result "action had to be taken against the French vessels in that locality."

Naval secrecy shrouded details of the action, although the ministry of information acknowledged that it still was going on today. The number of ships involved and the character of the fighting could only be guessed at.

For elaboration the country looked to Prime Minister Churchill, scheduled to make a state-

CHARGES: Germans Publish Accusations Against British

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Germany published today three more alleged French documents of the new Nazi "White Book" purporting to show that the Allies had planned to destroy Soviet Russian oil fields this summer to further the war on Germany.

Seven previous alleged documents, which the official German news agency, DNB, said were seized by German troops in France, were declared to have shown that the Allies planned to cut off the Reich's ore and oil sources and entangle neutrals in the war.

The first of three issued today was described as a handwritten note by former French Premier Edouard Daladier, dated Jan. 19 requesting Generalissimo Maurice Gamelin and Admiral Jean Darlan to "compose a memorandum about possible intervention for destruction of Russian oil fields."

Another alleged document dealt with French and British air forces and reported their general staffs in accord, as of April 5, on a joint operation against Russia's Batum and Baku oil refineries and port facilities in the Caucasus.

Between 90 and 100 Allied planes were to participate in raids, according to this purported document, which stated "it can be assumed that within the first six days, 30 to 35 per cent of the Caucasus refineries and port facilities will be destroyed."

The third of this series and the ninth alleged document thus far published embraces a letter supposedly sent by Generalissimo Maxime Weygand to Gamelin and Air Force General Vuillemin April 17 scheduling operations to begin at the end of June or early in July.

The letter quoted Weygand as believing preparations would require 15 to 50 days, and that the operations itself must last only a few days and must consist of mass bombings of those points whose destruction would be considered especially effective."

PANIC: Prisoners Battle For Lifeboats as Ship Sinks

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The first survivor of the torpedoed British prison ship Arandora Star to reach London today said the decks of the liner were a sea of faces as she went down. A cloud of steam rose 100 feet into the air and the suction dragged literally and men down with her."

The survivor was Martin Verminder, 18-year-old steward who was among the 1,000-odd land and sea soldiers aboard when she was torpedoed off a port in western Scotland

Their arrival left unaccounted for some 1,000 more of the 2,000 who were aboard—1,500 Germans and Italians being taken to Canada for internment and 500 members of the crew and British soldier-guards.

A torpedo launched by a German submarine ripped open the liner off the west coast of Ireland Tuesday morning and sent the prisoners into a panic. At least 800 Germans and Italians who fought to reach the lifeboats were believed to have lost their lives in the greatest passenger ship disaster since the Lusitania sank May 7 1915 with the loss of 1,198 lives.

The owners of the Arandora

FORECAST HULL RUNNING MATE

Observers Predict Secretary of State Will Team Up With Roosevelt.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A Roosevelt-Hull ticket was forecast today in high Democratic circles which have become convinced that the president will accept a third term nomination.

Although Mr. Roosevelt has given no public hint of his intentions, usually authoritative sources declared that he has made up his mind to run and that he wants Secretary of State Hull for the vice presidential nominee.

Hull has been spoken of frequently for first place on the Democratic slate if the chief executive should not run, but only recently has his name come to the fore in vice presidential talk. He personally has held aloof from

Will You Give $1 To Aid Refugees of European War?

Wanted 500 persons to give $1 to the war refugees of Europe.

The Richland county Red Cross made this last appeal today to citizens in order to reach its quota of $12,000 on the war relief fund.

To date the chapter has received $11,500 in contributions from people of the city and county, including $2,600 from the Shelby branch.

D. O. Meese, general chairman of the drive, said today that there remains but $500 to raise and he made a general appeal to the city and county to contribute this amount within the next week.

"If 500 persons will contribute $1 each," he said "we can go over the top. This of course doesn't mean that if anyone can give more and has not yet contributed he should stop at $1. The Richland county chapter has never yet been called upon for a mercy fund that it has fallen down and we won't now, I know."

Contributions can be mailed to the Red Cross office, Rogers building, West Fourth street.

Drive, Drink, Play and Eat Sanely--Live After Today

Those Are Embodied In Measures Urged By Health And Traffic Experts for a Safe July 4 Holiday.

By observing four common safety rules, Richland countians stand a much better chance of being alive and happy after the July 4 holiday, state traffic and health officials warned today.

Drive sanely, drink sanely play sanely, and eat sanely—that was the message to motorists and pleasure seekers from the men who know best why the death toll mounts over the Fourth of July holiday.

Col. Lynn Black, head of the state highway patrol, warned motorists of the added hazards of the holiday traffic.

"From today until Monday morning, the highways will be jammed with motorists out for a holiday. If everyone will respect the other fellow's rights and leave the bottle at home, Ohio can establish a safety record which will be the envy of others," Col. Black declared.

The state patrol director also warned that "speeding and reckless driving will be checked closely and offenders hauled into court immediately."

Health Director R. H. Markwith warned vacationists and picnickers to beware of road-side springs and open markets where unpasteurized milk is sold

"Be careful of the water and milk you drink while on that July 4th outing," he declared, "and you'll have no fear of the many diseases that bad water and unpasteurized milk can bring."

RAIDERS SEEN

German Planes Fly High Over Britain; Driven Off.

LONDON—(AP)—Anti-aircraft batteries went into action in southeast England this morning as three German raiders crossed the coast and flew inland at a great altitude.

Two heavy detonations were heard.

At another southeastern point a lone raider flew over a town and disappeared. Townspeople took shelter, but no gunfire was heard and no bombs fell.

Earlier in the day, German warplanes flew over a southwest England district. Anti-aircraft guns did not go into action, but other planes were heard, apparently British defense craft.

SUN SMILES ON CITY'S 'FOURTH'

Hundreds of Mansfielders on Highways, Others Wait For Civic Celebration.

No, it didn't snow, and it's not going to on this Fourth of July which came to Mansfield in a bright sun and warming temperatures, making conditions ideal for motor travel, picnics and various other holiday diversions.

In contrast to the cool, chilly days of the past week, the sun began to bear down hard early this morning, leading to a promise from the weatherman that tonight's biggest and best" community fireworks spectacle will be staged under almost ideal conditions

While hundreds of Mansfielders started out early on automobile trips for the holiday and weekend, others staying at home waited for the Mansfield Public Parks association's Independence Day celebration which opens at 2:30 this afternoon at the fairgrounds

July 4th Gave George Washington Unhappy Moments--But Not In 1776

Fort Necessity Surrender and Siege of Boston Embarrassed Him.

By EDDIE GILMORE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Lost in the hubbub of history is the fact that July 4 did not bring back to George Washington the happiest memories of his life.

The date of Independence day, in fact pained him slightly. That was natural, Washington was a proud man.

On July 4, 1754, the American who later became the father of his country was forced to surrender Fort Necessity to the French. He never liked to be reminded of it.

On another July 4—1775—Washington initiated the siege of Boston which, from a military point of view, had its unhappier angles

Aside from the fact that July 4 is the anniversary of the approval by congress of the declaration of independence, history is full of events—mostly forgotten that happened on the same day

The famous Barbone's parliament first convened at Westminster London July 4, 1653

Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth president of the United States was born July 4, 1872.

Samuel Champlain discovered the lake which since has borne his name on July 4, 1609

One of the first gasoline vehicles for hire—a forerunner of the automobile chugged its first public chug near Kokomo Ind., July 4, 1891

Hawaii was proclaimed a republic July 4 1894

Work began on the Erie canal July 4 1817

Work commenced on the first passenger railroad in the United States, July 4, 1828.

The patent office was established July 4, 1836

And Thomas Jefferson one of the men most responsible for the declaration of independence, died on July 4, 1826.

"T-that's right, sonny! Hold me tight! T-tight!" Monty tried to speak encouragingly, praying that the lad understood English. Other words of encouragement came from above now, too.

Monty found that a man has a lot of strength in his teeth as well as in his legs and arms. By biting into bunches of the limbs he could hold on with a greater sense of security, using just one hand to grip the main trunk. Then with the other hand, he reached down.

He caught the boy by the wrist, pulled him slowly upward.

The boy, moaning a little in abject fear, and trembling as well, was able now to grab the man's belt. Monty's arm went around him tight.

Monty had not dared look down. He was never made dizzy by heights but this great beautiful yawning canyon was unlike any place he had ever encountered before. To rest his jaw muscles, he gripped with knees and one hand and looked upward in hope.

First thing he saw was a newsreel cameraman grinding away at him from the edge not twenty feet above.

Then he saw that Bob King was lowering a rope, and he became conscious of words among the confusion of shrieks and shouting. Rosemary's strained face came into focus for him, then her frantic if calm words.

"Monty, hold on! Hold on!" she was pleading. "Help is coming! The rope — can you grasp the rope?"

Mr. McKee, Sue's father, and a couple of state police were endeavoring to aid Bob. Mr. McKee was calmly, firmly, directing the maneuvers.

"Hold the boy with your knees, Dr. Montgomery!" Mr. McKee said, loudly. "Grip the tree with your teeth and one hand. Then take the rope with the other hand—that's it—that's it—under the boy's arm—grab the rope yourself, sonny—one of you Hopis tell him in his own tongue—QUIET EVERYBODY — that's right—now change your grip to the other hand, Dr. Montgomery, to relax and rest your right arm a moment—now take hold of the rope yourself, both hands—let go the tree gradually, to avoid a bump and jerk—the rope is strong enough to hold you both easily—that's it—fine—fine!"

The crowd—all who could get a view—was spellbound as strong men pulled up Monty and the Indian boy.

When arms grabbed them and hoisted them safely up over the canyon rim again, a spontaneous cheer sounded. Women shed tears, and even a few men sobbed openly in sheer relief.

The president of the United States had remained calm on the guests' platform, but he knew what was happening and saw Monty and the boy come over the rim. He arose then to applaud in the common happiness there, his distinguished face flushed with relief from anxiety.

"Oh I say—!" Monty paused to inhale deeply, standing there on the rocky rim. "I say—thanks, Bob! The rope—you—"

Monty was incoherent, and beginning to tremble a little, but he gazed at Bob King's face and tried to express gratitude.

"For crimmy's sake, man!" Bob berated him. "Don't do a fool stunt like that again!"

"I—oh! Yes—the little boy—"

"You're old enough to know better! Anyhow it's nothing but an Indian kid. You might have dropped—"

Everybody began talking at once but Rosemary and a few others had heard the quick conversation between the two men. Nothing but an Indian kid! . . . Somehow these words of Bob's rang in Rosemary's ears. Did Bob mean—

There was prolonged confusion. The newsreel man, who had undoubtedly taken a precious chance sequence there, danger, rescue and all, wanted a close-up now of Bob King and the Hopi boy. Bob photographed well in his ranger uniform. Everybody had praises and congratulations. Everybody was trying to talk. And yonder, waiting respectfully, was the nation's most distinguished guest for whom a planned entertainment must go on.

The president beckoned and finally got to shake Bob's hand, and he spoke in warm praise of Monty too although Monty had disappeared. The Hopi lad was in his parent's arm, but a presidential attache was dispatched to see after them and wish them well. The master of ceremonies came up then.

"Mr. King was scheduled to deliver a 15-minute address as a public report to you, Mr. President, on forest conservation work," he said. "But I doubt if he is now in any condition to organize his thoughts. Mr. King, would you rather omit—?"

"No indeed!" Bob spoke briskly, smiling. His natty forest ranger uniform was hardly ruffled, despite the excitement and work he had done. "I'd be disappointed if I didn't get a chance to say my piece."

"Excellent!" the president said. "Excellent, my boy! Ask all the people to stand quietly again. I am anxious to hear what Mr. King has to say to us all."

Rosemary, noting Bob's obvious assurance and poise, suddenly swelled with pride for him. Of course he hadn't meant anything cruel or—or mean—about the Indian lad. Bob was really very fine. The president of the United States himself had just said so. Everybody was looking expectantly at handsome Bob now. The master of ceremonies was introducing him.

Then all at once Rosemary thought of something else.

"Goodness!" she muttered. "Where's is Monty? He had a lot of scratches and cuts on his face and on the backs of his hands. After all, he is the one who—I must go—I must help him!"

Dear Mr. Bickford:

Thank you so much for your note, answering my card. It is sweet of you and Mr. Cullum to tell me I can stay, and that you will hold my job open for me.

To tell you the truth, I seem stuck here. Nobody wants to buy a trading post, at least not for anything like its value, and Monty, that's my professor friend—says I will be foolish to sacrifice it for half its worth or less. It is a much bigger place than I thought. And darn if I don't kind of like it, Mr. Bickford. You and the others would die to see me clerking in a store, waiting on Indians and cowboys and everything. Right now as I write this there is not another human being within three miles of me, so far as I know, because we live in a wilderness. I've got scads of stories to tell. I'm not as homesick as I was. A lot happens in a forest: more than you'd think.

Thanks again, and I'll be writing—

Rosemary.

MORNING CEREMONY PRFORMED TODAY

Miss Leota Pittenger, Arthur Boyce Quietly Married at First Lutheran Church, Leave Immediately on Northern Trip.

THE many friends of Miss Leota Pittenger will be surprised to learn of her marriage this morning to Arthur L. Boyce at 9:30 o'clock before the altar of the First Lutheran church. Dr. Grover E. Swoyer officiated for the quiet nuptial event. Miss Pittenger, who has made her home here with her grandmother, Mrs. Laura J. Ferree, 175 West Fifth street, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo H. Pittenger, Pavonia.

She was simply attired in a navy dress trimmed in white and wore white accessories and a corsage composed of a pale orchid and stephanotis. The former Miss Pittenger was graduated from the Weller township high school, and has been employed as secretary to County Superintendent of Schools Boyd Robinson.

Mr. Boyce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Boyce, R. D. 1, Mansfield. He also was graduated from the Weller township high school, and is now employed at the Shelby Mutual Plate Glass Insurance company. He is well-known here in musical circles having sung with various Singers club productions, and being director of the choir at the South Main Street Evangelical church.

Miss Pittenger was attended by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Holmes, R. D. 2, Mansfield, who was also attired in navy. Her frock was trimmed with light blue and she wore matching accessories with a corsage of gardenias and pink roses. Jay Moore, R. D. 2, Shiloh, was best man.

Immediately following the ceremony the pair left for a wedding trip to Wisconsin and Michigan. Upon their return July 20 they will be at home at 4 Dale avenue, Shelby.

Mark Mid-Season At July Sessions of Garden Groups

Organizations Plan Many Events During July.

As Independence day arrives one group of organizations in the city look about and discover that they are already halfway through their very brief season. We are sepaking of the garden clubs in Mansfield which will mark mid-term with their meetings later this month. A variety of programs has been planned.

Tomorrow will be the annual Junior Garden club picnic sponsored by the Astowela club, with Mrs. Richard Fensch, Miss Carolyn Walter, Mrs. D. C. Lavender and Mrs. A. R. Perl in charge. This same group will resume activities on July 19 with a program by Mrs. J. H. Finefrock with Mrs. Emerson Weller and Mrs. C. A. Hines serving as hostesses.

Another event in the same circles planned for tomorrow is the session of the Cottage club which will meet with Mrs. S. D. Hoover. A program on "Weeds and Weed Control" will be presented by Mrs. George Smith. Garden center information will be provided Friday by Mrs. L. J. Ott when Mrs. George J. Searle assumes the hostess duties of Miss Louise Krause at the Women's Club for the Johnny Appleseed group.

Still another meeting set for tomorrow is that of the Town and Country group which will meet with Mrs. Samuel Orr. Mrs. H. W. Gibbs will talk on "Flower Identification."

Because of the holiday the usual schedule of meetings has been somewhat disrupted, and the Mansfield Garden club will not meet until July 12. At that time Mrs. William Bowers and Mrs. Charles Schroer will entertain with Mrs. Burton Preston leading the discussion on "Gardening in The Shade."

Still another group to carry on mid-season activities will be the Linnaeus Garden club with a meeting scheduled with Mrs. Harry Armstrong, 30 Penn avenue, on July 9. Mrs. Charles Chew will have the program.

Former Resident Married In June At Woonsocket

Robert Paul Kelley and Miss Marie Dauray Exchange Vows.

ANNOUNCEMENT was received today which will be of interest to Mansfielders, as a former resident of this city took a Woonsocket, R. I., girl for his bride in a ceremony there on June 23. Miss Marie Rachel Berthe Dauray, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Dauray and Robert Paul Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Kelley, 389 West Third street, were married at 9:30 o'clock that morning before the altar of the Notre Dame des Victoires church.

Rev. J. M. L. Giroux performed the service, when the bride, who wore white net and satin scrolled monk-type gown and carried a prayer book with a spray of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley, had her sister, Miss Gabrielle Dauray, as her only attendent. Edouard Dauray gave his sister in marriage, while Mr. Kelley's father served as his best man.

The bridegroom's mother, his sisters and brother, Jane, Judy and Jimmy, of this city, and his brother, John of Springfield, Mass., were also present for the wedding, which was followed by a breakfast at the Lafayette House in Foxboro, Mass.

After Aug. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley will be at home to friends at 69-81 108 street, Forest Hills, L. I. The bride is a graduate of the Jesus-Marie convent. Mr. Kelley, who is an alumnus of Notre Dame and Ohio State universities, is employed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in New York City. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Fete Recent Bride At Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Phillip Wright, the former Miss Louise Sears, was honored Tuesday evening at a miscellaneous shower given by the Misses Lois Laubscher and Betty J. Blackstone, and Mrs. Eldred Bregue. The Blackstone home, 86 Bartley avenue, was the scene of the affair.

Bridge and hearts were played, and prizes were won by Miss Grace Ladd and Mrs. Madeline Meggitt. These awards were given to the honoree. Pink and white appointments were used on the small tables at which luncheon was served. The hostesses presented the honoree with an electrical gift.

Mary B. Mitchell Tent Ready For 25th Anniversary Party

INVITATIONS were in the mail early this week for the silver anniversary celebration of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40. The affair will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Memorial building. Arrangements have been made to honor out-of-town guests at the affair.

The general chairman for the affair is Mrs. Eunice Cleland. She will be assisted by Mrs. Della Cochran, Mrs. Alice Oster and Mrs. Mary Johnson, decorations; Mrs. Henrietta Sherman, invitations; Mrs. Ella McHugh, program; Mrs. Jane Taylor, Mrs. Alice Hunter, Miss Maud Swearingen, refreshments, and Mrs. Alice Garrett, assisted by all the past presidents, as chairman of the reception committee.

Mary B. Mitchell Tent was organized in June of 1915 with the Wooster tent conducting the ritualistic work under the direction of Clara Yengling, department president. Since that time the Mansfield group has conducted the ritual for the organizing of the Ashland, Shelby and Willard tents.

To date there have been 22 presidents including Mrs. Sherman, and of that group there are 18 still living. Sarah Douglas was the first president.

ROUTINE SESSION.

A routine business meeting was held by the Charles Dick auxiliary at the Memorial building Tuesday night. Mrs. Effie McGregor, Shelby, gave a report of the recent department convention which was held in Akron. The afternoon was spent in quilting. The next regular meeting will be held July 16, while the group will hold an all-day quilting July 11.

Possum Run Women Play Golf and Bridge at Club

Regular play was in session yesterday at Possum Run golf course when members of the Women's association met. Prizes in the three flights were awarded to Miss Harriett Roth, Mrs. Carl Adams and Mrs. Harold Stauffer. Luncheon was served and bridge was in play during the afternoon.

Winners were Mrs. John Mahon and Mrs. Richard Maxwell. The members will be the guests of the Westbrook Women's association Tuesday at 9 a. m. for golf and luncheon. They will play at their own club again on Wednesday.

Varied Program Set for Members of Country Club

Many Holiday Events Offer Entertainment at Westbrook.

PLANS for activities throughout the remainder of the season at Westbrook Country club were revealed last night in connection with final plans for the Fourth of July program at the club. Today members will meet at the locker house at 2 p. m. to participate in the mixed two-ball foursome. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Fish and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Walker are in charge of the arrangements.

During the evening a picnic supper will be served, and games and entertainment will follow at the club. Dinner is at 6 p. m.

A similar program has been arranged for Labor day with Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Bacon and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gorman in charge of the two-ball foursome.

Hostesses for ladies' day play the last two months of the season will be Mrs. Fish, Mrs. A. L. Price, Mrs. L. W. Olson and Mrs. Clyne Crawford, August; and Mrs. William A. Springer, Mrs. H. H. Shaw, Mrs. Bacon and Mrs. F. H. Maxwell, September.

Included on the program for the remainder of the season for the Women's association will be the tea July 10 with Mrs. F. J. Heringhaus, and the buffet luncheon July 24 with Mrs. F. A. Voegele. In August there will be two 1 o'clock luncheons followed by bridge—one on the 7th arranged by Miss Frances Strickler and one on the 21st planned by Mrs. W. B. Ford. Another tea will be a feature of Sept. 4 with Mrs. Howard Sotzen in charge, and the award day breakfast will be held Sept. 18 with Mrs. Leonard Jones making the arrangements.

Besides the grand finale dance Sept. 21 there will be dancing July 6 and 20, Aug. 3 and Aug 17, when college night is observed with Richard Sturges as chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Donley will be in charge of the last affair.

PROGRAM CHAIRMEN READY FOR SEASON

Timely Suggestions on Submitting Copy Given to Women Who Will Take Over Posts of Publicity Directors.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

IN SPITE of the fact that it will be at least two months before the study and literary clubs of Mansfield resume fall activities, program chairmen have confided that they have been especially busy already mapping out plans for the fall, winter and spring months, getting programs off to the printers, reading proofs and doing the many other necessary things dependent upon their jobs.

Seeing future programs have already begun to shape up, this holiday morning seems to be as fitting an occasion as any for addressing a few remarks to that very important officer of every club — the secretary or publicity chairman.

Many of you are taking over the duties of your office for the first time, and you find yourself faced with the question, "What do I do about publicity?"

Fortunately the answer is quite simple, and from past experience I have discovered that a few pointers handed out before the season actually begins make things go with incredible smoothness in the months to come.

To begin with this department urges you to send a corrected copy of your club booklet or program to us as early as possible. In this way we have always at our fingertips necessary information about your group. After that in order to assure yourself of the best possible space and position we ask that notices of previous meetings be called or sent in the morning following a meeting.

Perhaps you have all heard about the newspaper's w's and h, but though they sound funny sometimes, they are the fundamental basis of all news writing, so be sure to tell us what, when, where, who, why and how every time you contact the society desk.

Remember always that the unusual fact is NEWS. If you're celebrating an anniversary, entertaining your husbands, or bringing a noted speaker to the city, let us know all about it in plenty of time to give you complete and accurate advance publicity.

It is well, if you possibly can, for you to become acquainted with the society department members, and identify yourself by name, address and phone number. Then if we have any difficulties it is simple to reach the proper person.

Finally, it is essential to always have full names of all persons mentioned, and to have them correctly spelled.

Naturally there are many, many more facts on the subject of publicity—the library will be happy to provide you with books on the subject — but these few suggestions, if followed by the coming group of publicity chairmen, will assure complete and adequate publicity to all organizations during the coming season.

Mrs. Chronister Chairman During Missionary Meet

The Women's Missionary society of the First United Brethren church met yesterday at the church with Mrs. O. E. Chronister, program chairman, in charge. She was assisted by Mrs. Ray Scott and Mrs. P. W. Brown in giving the devotions.

"The Christian Patriot Takes a World View" was the title of the talk given by Mrs. John H. Miller, who was followed by Mrs. Walter Coder who spoke on the life and work of Albert Switzer. Mrs. Raymond Holmes spoke on "Looking From Lavender Mountain." Mrs. Leonard Hutzelman followed with a poem, "The New Patriot." In conclusion Mrs. Ward Barrett sang "In Christ There Is No East nor West."

During the business session which followed, the president, Mrs. Hutzelman, announced that the society would have a picnic Aug. 7. The place will be announced later.

Sunburn Courts Danger

By MME. QUI VIVE

Be a sun-worshipper. That's all right. The invigorating rays will fill you full of ginger. But don't forget that you are playing with fire. Go easy. Let the first exposures to Mister Sol's kisses be brief. The girl who deliberately courts a bad case of sunburn is plain goofy. There's not much difference between sunburn and any other kind of a scorching.

First there is inflammation. Then blistering starts up. The final stage is desquamation which is a shedding of the dead skin scales. When that conditon is present one's onliest face is likely to look pretty ragged and patchy. The sensitive new skin freckles easily. When you ply the powder pad, the effect is not glamorous. And rouge doesn't do any good at all.

If enough of the skin surface is affected there is present a poisonous substance that is picked up by the blood streams. Headaches come to madden one. Fevers can ensue. Some of the dead tissues can be absorbed by the blood, and that makes more trouble. These are not the usual cases, of course, but such things happen. Why take a chance? Deep burning of the cutaneous coat can make one downright ill because the physical system is disturbed and nerves are jangling.

Brief exposures at first will prevent troubles. The skin should be oiled, so the rays of the sun will not be so penetrating. One will acquire a golden surface instead of the blazing red that is no beauty bargain.

Time was when it was considered cute to get bronzed, to cultivate a coat of tan that made one look like a gypsy. That is a mistake. Tan is a protective pigmentation. If this indulgence goes on summer after summer, the skin toughens and the texture becomes coarse, pores appearing larger. Men who work in the open fields grow facial hides like leather. The nutty brown coat may become permanent. No girl would care for that kind of a face. Yet there are demon tanners who still fancy it's smart to toast their complexions to the limit.

When going to the beach take along your suntan oil. It's not a bad plan to use it when taking a long motor trip, since wind and dust have a deplorable effect upon the complexion. After exposure to the sun, do not use soap and water, but apply a cleansing cream. The idea is to keep the skin surface lubricated, so it will retain delicacy and softness.

If, despite care, one gets sunburned, apply a solution of bicarbonate of soda, putting it on with a cotton pledget. Be gentle so the skin will not be broken. Even a tiny wound invites infection.

Garden Graph

PERENNIAL TREE ONION

If you would have spring onions next year weeks earlier than most home gardens produce them, get ready now to plant some of the variety known as Egyptian onion, or perennial tree onion. This is a hardy variety of onion which is of especial value for home gardens in those sections of the country which are apt to have unusually severe winters. The sets of this onion will remain in the ground with safety all through the winter. Growth starts early in the spring with the result that these onions are ready for use several weeks ahead of other varieties.

The top sets, or bulblets, of the perennial tree onion, shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, are produced in late summer. These "sets" should be planted as soon as they are matured, and left in the ground for early spring growth.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 5.

A definite degree of enduring progress should be made on this day under the impetus of expansive and substantial planetary influences. It should be a time on which elders, employers, or those whose prestige and financial generosity may be depended upon for the furtherance of meritorious and soundly constructive propositions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of solid progress in the way of putting their interest and possessions on a firm and enduring foundation.

A child born on this day may have a substantial, dependable and trustworthy nature, with warmth generosity and camaraderie despite much dignity.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

We did not dare to make the slightest movement, so we could not turn to see the car coming up the road. But when it came abreast of us we saw that it held four men, all of them guards. We breathed a bit easier when we realized that neither Harry, Dicky, nor yet the pseudo Noel and Mary, were among its occupants.

"Hey, you!" one of Leslie's men called. "Where's the young woman and her husband that you were going to bring with you? I don't see anybody that looks young around that outfit."

"They're on their way," the leader of my father's men said. "We just came along ahead to see that you birds didn't put anything over on us in the way of numbers. I guess we were wise at that. I can count eight of you all told . . . and we only have six as per schedule, four here, and two in the car with the young couple.

It was my turn to grip Lillian's wrist. I was very sure that the two men with the disguised Watson and Drake were our husbands. And they were outnumbered! Then I remembered that Watson and Blake were also armed, and ready to give an account of themselves. But—what hand did the pretended army officer, hidden in the roadster in the wood lane, hold in this game?

"You're crazy!" the leader of Leslie's men said contemptuously. "You know your chief named the number of men to come. It isn't our fault you didn't remember how many to bring."

"But it will be ours if we let you get away with this little trick," my father's guard said. "Now before we do any business, or turn over anybody to you, we're going to have things evened up here a bit."

"Well! Mister Master of Ceremonies!" gibed the gangster, "what's your little program?"

"It's very simple, my father's man said. "Those two men in the small car—and the box are to get into your big car, and two of your men are to take the small car and beat it out of here. We'll just trail you down the road back to be sure you go home. Probably on the way we'll meet our other two men escorting the young folks you're going to get in exchange for the box. If we meet 'em we'll just tip 'em off to stay put until we get back from putting your boys on the way. Then we'll come back together, and we can make our swap all easy and sociable like."

"And suppose we don't play," the gang leader mocked.

"Then we take our marbles and go home," my father's man gibed. "We'd like that box, sure, but you'd like our young folks, and we're not going to have any monkey business. If you're on the square and misunderstood, you'll be glad to ship two of your men back so as to make the thing even. If you can't do that, we'll just call the whole thing off right now."

"Wait a minute!" the other man said, and then the men standing behind the big car conferred together in low voices. Finally the leader raised his voice again.

"Well! I suppose we'll have to humor you nervous babies," he said.

"Doesn't matter a damn to us what you call us, so long as you play ball," my father's man replied imperturbably, and then our men waited while the man with the box from the small car and his companion got out and went to the big car, while two of the men standing behind the big car took their places in the small car.

"Now then," one of them said mockingly: "Where do we go from here?"

"The Authority on Authorities"

VIRTUE NOT REWARDED

If you become a very fine player, you will come in for a lot of unjust kidding. Many a beautifully sound and scientific play of yours will prove disastrous in situations which would have worked splendidly with ordinary unskillful technique. You will be particularly harassed if you play duplicate. Once in a while a hand will come along which nobody plays correctly but yourself, but on which you get the worst possible score because the cards are so distributed that the wrong play works better than the right one.

West led his club 2 to the 9 and 10, and the talented declarer studied. He saw that, if the spade finesse would not go, he might have trouble. Cashing the heart K, he would need an entry to dummy to lead another heart and knock out the Q, then a second entry to bring in the suit. But he had a safety play. He led the heart K to the second trick and overtook with the A, then led a second heart to knock out the Q and still have the spade A as a sure entry.

When East won the second heart, he returned a club so West could cash the A and K. South won the fourth club, next the spade finesse, but West's 9 blocked the heart suit, so he could make no more than a bare game.

The run-of-the-mine players who won the first heart trick with the K, won the spade finesse, then laid down the heart A, made two overtricks, getting six tricks in hearts, two in spades, two in diamonds and one in clubs. So they all kidded the unfortunate expert until he gave them a lesson on the hand, "free charge for nothing."

Tiffin Mud Hens Scorch Mansfield Braves, 10 to 5

Braves Hurler Blasted From Mound In 6th

Rex Benton, New Mansfield Pitcher, Gives Way To Radoumis After Brilliant Start.

By GEORGE SATTLER

LAST NIGHT was "Rex Benton" night at the Fairground. But for Rex Benton himself it turned out to be just another bad night.

Pitching superlative ball for the first four innings, the young Ashlander, who joined the Braves last night, stumbled badly in the fifth and sixth frames as the Tiffin Mud Hens found him for five runs.

Alex Radoumis relieved Benton on the mound but he fared no better against the heavy artillery the Hens brought into action last night. The final score read: Tiffin 10, Mansfield 5.

Until the fifth inning the Braves looked like the winning ball club. With a comfortable two-run lead and Benton hitting his stride, the Mansfield outfit gave every indication of being the team to put the greenbacks on.

* * *

But in the fifth Benton began to weaken. Singles by Budd and Campeau, a double by Cassini, added to walks handed King and Sanders, gave the Mud Hens two runs, tying the score.

Manager Dewey Stover saw that Benton was weakening and sent Alex Radoumis to the mound. But the crowd objected loudly and Stover called Radoumis back to the dugout.

In the sixth, the Hens jumped into the lead with three runs. Kudrycki, the first man up, walked. Kerns landed safe on first and Kudrycki went to third on an error by Morse. Budd popped to Seigbert.

King, Tiffin shortstop, then sent a blistering double to right field, scoring Kudrycki. On the next play Kerns scored on Campeau's fly to Woodten. Thomas singled and King romped home. Cassini also singled and Radoumis replaced Benton on the mound. Sanders, the next man up, fouled out, retiring the side.

Tiffin scored again in the seventh, twice in the eighth, and twice in the ninth. Kudrycki and King did most of the plate-crossing.

The Braves drove in two runs in the third, one in the sixth, and two in the ninth for their five-run total.

Although Mansfield came out on the wrong end of a 10 to 5 beating, Dewey Stover and Herb Woodten shared the limelight for their brilliant hitting last night.

Stover tripled in the first inning and again in the third. Woodten netted the only circuit smash of the contest when he slashed one over centerfield with nobody on in the sixth.

Today, the Braves journey to Tiffin to take on the Mud Hens in a holiday doubleheader. Last night Manager Dewey Stover was undecided as to whom he would send to the mound.

The Lima Pandas stretched their winning streak to 10 games by trimming Fremont 6 to 2, while the Findlay Oilers spanked the Fostoria Red Birds, 6 to 5, last night.

AAU Swim Meet Goes On Today

Outstanding Aquatic Stars Of Country Fight It Out At Santa Barbara.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—(AP)—Waters of Coral Casino pool churned and splashed to the accompaniment of exploding firecrackers today as the country's outstanding aquatic stars launched four days of competition in the National A. A. U. men's outdoor swimming and diving championships.

Of all the big names in competitive swim, that of Ralph Flanagan, alone, was missing as a bevy of California spectator-beauties lined the gaily decorated pool-deck to watch finals in free style and 330-yard medley relay events and preliminaries in the one-mile free style and three-meter spring board diving competitions.

Flanagan, who highlighted the 1939 A. A. U. meet in Detroit has decided against defending his title in the 440, the 880 and mile free-style events since his marriage to Ruth Jump, the diver.

Rivalry between Al Patnik of Ohio State, who holds the championship, and Earl Clark, his teammate, holds the interest in the three-meter spring board event. They are not taking too lightly, however, the threats from Occidental College's Sammy Lee and Norman Sper, jr., and San Antonio's Jack and Roger Tolar.

Kiyoshi Nakama of the powerful Hawaiian team put his 220-yard free style title on the block and quickly saw it challenged by such stars as Paul Wolt of University of Southern California. Gus Sharemet of Michigan and Andy Clark of Wayne university.

* * *

Detroit Athletic club, defending champion in the 330-yard medley relay, found itself none too secure in that role but placed full confidence in its Taylor Trysdale and Richard and Bill Prew, who comprise its team. Teams from Los Angeles A. C. and Pasadena A. C. were the most serious threats.

Colonels Win In 14 Frames

Defeat Red Birds, 4 to 3, To Even Series.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—After having 21 men left on the bases, the Louisville Colonels squeezed out a 14-inning, 4 to 3 victory over the Columbus Redbirds last night to square the two-game American Association series.

* * *

Louisville knotted the count in the ninth inning when Paul Campbell cracked out a single with the bases loaded—by three walks—to drive in two runs.

* * *

The Colonels put men on the sacks repeatedly during the rest of the extra-inning struggle but were unable to work up a scoring punch until Chet Morgan's drive out to first with the bases filled brought in the winning tally.

WOODLAWN TOURNEY TO REACH FINAL STAGE

Quarter-finals in singles and semi-finals in doubles in the Woodlawn tennis tournament are expected to be reached as a result of today's play at the Woodlawn courts.

Results of the matches held so far are: Warner Peterson defeated William Campbell, 6-1, 6-0. Gadfield defeated Stonebrook, 6-4, 6-4; and Spear-Enos defeated Arnold-Maul in doubles 6-1, 6-1.

WINS BOTH HEATS

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Little Pat, bay gelding driven by Lacey, stole the show in the Ohio Short Ship circuit's third program of light harness racing at Canfield last night, winning both heats of the $1,000 free for-all pace.

College Tennis Finalist

Member of the last Davis Cup doubles team and now a midshipman at the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis, Joe Hunt, above, was a finalist in the national intercollegiate tennis tourney at Haverford, Pa. Hunt was beaten by Don McNeill of Kenyon college, Gambier, O.

Moose Softball Club Wins 7th Straight

MOOSE club softball combination steamed into the first half championship in the Y. M. C. A. Commercial softball loop last night behind the top notch five-hit pitching of Francis Brown by blanking the Town Taverns, 6 to 0.

Out of the 29 batters who faced Brown, he struck out 11. Hoffman, Town Tavern second baseman, was the only Tavernite to get more than a single. He hit a triple.

* * *

Windsor was on the mound for the Town Taverns, while Pittinger was behind the plate. Windsor struck out three and walked five. Brown did not walk a man.

The Moose club have won seven and lost none so far this season.

The Barnes Challengers won the other Commercial loop game scheduled yesterday when the Kobackers forfeited.

Cop 2 Games From Browns

Senators Lick Charleston In Pitchers' Duels.

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— Pitching duels featured the four-game Mid-Atlantic league program last night.

Youngstown fans saw two of them as the Browns beat the Charleston Senators, 5 to 3 and 4 to 1. The Brownies made six hits off McCaskell and Goletz in the seven-inning opener while Janeski allowed the Senators five, including homers by Goletz and Robinson.

* * *

In the second game the Browns won on five hits off Stephens, while Charleston made six off Sanford. Catcher Kahn collected Charleston's third homer of the evening.

Portsmouth, outhit 8 to 9, drubbed the leading Canton Terriers, 9 to 2. Portsmouth piled up four runs in the initial inning to coast to victory despite brilliant relief hurling.

Barnett of Akron went 15 innings, allowing Dayton 15 hits, in a game which was called because of the midnight rule at the end of the 15th with the score knotted 5 to 5.

* * *

Today's schedule: (All doubleheaders) Akron at Charleston, Dayton at Canton, Portsmouth at Youngstown.

NICK'S PLACE GETS 9-3 VERDICT OVER GALION

Nick's Place Softball club gained a 9 to 3 verdict over the Galion softball club last night at the Forest Garden diamond.

Gross started on the mound for the Nicks but was replaced by Appleman. Clog hurled for the Galion Club. P. Metz, Nick second baseman, copped batting honors by poking out the only home run of the game.

Reds, Pirates Tangle

Cincinnati Club Has Off Chance of Bobbing Up In First Place.

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds reach the Independence day milestone in the National league race with just an off chance of bobbing up in first place for the seventh time this year.

They take on the Pittsburgh Pirates, with whom they have had satisfactory relations to the extent of winning six of seven games played so far, in the holiday twin bill. If they can keep up the good work all day and the New York Giants manage to put a pair of straitjackets on the Brooklyn Dodgers, the said Brooklyns will be out of the top spot at a date which is supposed to be decisive in the baseball business.

Bucky Walters, trying for his 11th victory, and Gene Thompson, desirous of his tenth, are the Red pitchers, against Max Butcher and Bob Klinger. Walters has beaten the Pirates twice, while Gene has divided two games. Butcher gave the Pirates their one decision over the Reds and lost another and Klinger doesn't show in the records as far as the Reds are concerned.

Manager Bill McKechnie is known to take little stock in the baseball axiom that the team in front July 4 wins the pennant. He may be taking that stand in defense of the possibility that the Reds won't be in front when the sun sets tonight, but there are certain bits of evidence to support his confidence.

In the first place the Reds are still leading the league in fielding. And with the brand of pitching they have, about the only way to beat them is to shut them out. Of the nine pitchers on the roster, only one, Johnny Hutchings, is below the .500 mark—and that only because he has no decisions one way or the other.

Otherwise Whitey Moore is lowest with an even .500 on two wins and two losses.

DULUTH SMEARS LEADERS IN NORTHERN LEAGUE

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) — The Grand Forks Chiefs, despite a 6-4 defeat from Winnipeg, backed into first place in the Northern league tonight as Duluth smeared the league leading Superior Blues 4-3. The Chiefs lead was just one percentage point .593 to .592.

One other change occurred in the standings as a result of tonight's games, Eau Claire climbing out of the cellar with a 6-5 triumph over Wausau while Crookston was overwhelming Fargo-Moorhead 11-0.

WINS $500

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—(AP)—Royal Spencer, brown gelding driven by Dennison, took the winnner's share of the featured $500 2:13 class pace in straight heats in the second program of the Ohio Short Ship circuit's meeting at Canfield last night.

Cabs Smother Church Team

Service Pitcher Strikes Out 15 Congregationals.

A sensational pitching performance turned in by Parr, gave the Service Cabs a 20 to 4 victory over the Congregational ball club yesterday at North Lake park diamond.

Parr struck out 15 of the 32 opposing batters who faced him and allowed only six hits. Scott started for the Congregationals and was relieved by Bush.

Moorhead, Cabbie rightfielder, smashed out four hits out of five trips to the plate to lead the hitters.

The dent in the ball shows that the picture was taken in the exact instant of impact.

Feller Pitches Tribe Back In League Lead

Cleveland Ace Cops 13th Victory of Season as Indians Crush Browns, 5 to 2.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—This is the day to dust off that old wheeze about the baseball club in first place on the Fourth of July being a cinch to wind up the season in the lead.

As this Independence day dawned the Cleveland Indians led the American loop—by the grace of Bob Feller's speed ball and some hefty hitting in yesterday's game with the St. Louis Browns.

But it was a toss-up whether the Tribe would still be in top position at sundown after a doubleheader with the second-place Detroit Tigers, who are one game behind the Tribe.

A couple of boys named Al—Milnar and Smith—southpaws with pretty impressive pitching records this season, were nominated for Indian mound duty against Tommy Bridges and Harold Newhouser for the Bengals.

Feller's 13th victory moved the Tribe back in first place as the Tigers dropped a game to the Chicago White Sox. Pitching seven-hit ball, Feller beat the St. Louis Browns 5 to 2 for the Indians only win in a three-game series which had knocked them out of the leadership.

The Tribe collected ten blows off Pitcher Bob Harris, including home run clouts by Ken Keltner and Ray Mack. In addition Hal Trosky contributed three doubles, Ben Chapman two and Roy Weatherly, one.

Trosky's first double and Beau Bell's single produced the Redskins' first run in the second. Weatherly doubled in the third and scored on Trosky's second two-sacker. In the fourth, Keltner belted his homer.

Mack opened the eighth inning with his circuit smash and Trosky got his third double in as many trips to bat. The first baseman advanced on Bell's sacrifice and scored on Chapman's two-base hit.

* * *

In his 13th triumph against four defeats, Feller fanned 11 men and walked five.

VACATIONISTS GET WARNING ON FEVER DANGERS

Health Commissioner Urges Immunization, Tells Them to Watch Out for Water.

With the summer vacation season well under way, Dr. Roy C. Rohder, city-county health commissioner today warned vacationists of the dangers of typhoid fever while visiting vacation spots, especially persons not immunized against the disease.

"Quite frequently summer vacations are planned at remote spots where there are few if any safeguards against typhoid fever," Dr. Rehder said.

Stressing the importance of immunization as a means of protection, he urged those not immunized to arrange summer vacations for places where there is an adequate safe milk and water supply.

"On camping trips to remote sections, water should be boiled before being used or some approved chemical should be mixed with the water to purify it," he added.

Dr. Rehder also warned against the dangers of contracting typhoid fever from raw foods, and advised proper cooking before they are eaten.

He declared that the best safeguard against contracting disease is immunization.

FILES APPEAL

Defendant Fights Verdict In $1,000 Land Purchase Suit.

Earl R. Sauder today had filed an appeal from a municipal court decision with the common pleas court, in a suit involving $1,000 in which he was the defendant.

L. W. Hammett and Iris O. Hammett sued Sauder for $1,000 in municipal court and set forth that they had purchased a property on Woodville road from Sauder upon his representation that there was a fresh water spring on the place and that after the purchase, they found this was not true and that Sauder had been carrying water for domestic consumption from a spring a mile distant.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch granted the Hammetts $364.50 on the $1,000 claim. Sauder, through his attorney, Stuart Cramer, appealed the case to common pleas court George Biddle is attorney for the plaintiffs.

AUDITOR TRIES TO STRIKE A 'BARGAIN' ON DEBT DUE STATE

With Richland county owing the state approximately $10,000 and the state owing the county $7,928, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe had proposed a settlement today that would virtually "square accounts" without the exchange of any money.

The auditor made his proposal in an attempt to clear up the debts which have accumulated over a period of nearly 10 years

The state owes the county the money as reimbursement for court costs and transportation charges in criminal convictions on state charges.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said the total bill due all the 88 counties was nearly $900,000 and added that the money cannot be paid unless the state legislature appropriates funds next January.

The county owes the state about $10,000 for keeping county patients in state hospitals and institutions.

Auditor Wolfe said the county "won't be in any hurry to pay off its debt until the state pays us what it owes us in the criminal cases."

A law passed in 1937 prohibits the county from withholding all the money it owes, however, so Wolfe said small installments would be paid on the state debt.

It was learned that no money has been appropriated by the state for re-paying the counties since 1935.

"Time and again, county officials have sought to collect the money due them for this purpose, but nothing has been done about it," the state auditor commented.

GETS $5,000 IN LICENSE MONEY

County Allocation From Sale of Automobile Tags Reaches $148,000 for Year.

The Richland county road department had received $5,000 today from the state in automobile license funds, making a total of $148,000 the state has allocated to the county so far this year for road and bridge repair and construction.

Most of the money received by the county has represented auto license fees, County Engineer Howard Sword said. There was about $30,000 in gas tax funds.

Largest allocation was in April, just after most motorists bought their new license plates. Supplementary allocations will be made throughout the year as more license and gas tax money is collected by the state.

Last year's money from the two highway sources of revenue for Richland county amounted to $215,000. Sword said that state highway officials estimate a decrease of $28,000 this year in the funds that will come to the county.

Wooster College Students Return Favor By Willkie

WOOSTER —(U.P.)— One good turn deserves another and several Wooster college students today planned to organize a Willkie-for-president club next fall in return for a favor extended the college by Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee.

Willkie made a trip to Wooster from New York last January at his own expense to speak at a dinner to inaugurate Wooster's $500,000 fund campaign in Wayne county.

THEATERS

Baby Sandy As Herself.

A quintet of comedians appear in support of Baby Sandy in the two-year-old star's first starring picture "Sandy Is a Lady" which comes to the Ohio for Friday only. The five funmakers are Mischa Auer, Eugene Pallette, Billy Gilbert, Edgar Kennedy and Fritz Feld. Auer is seen as a slightly loony inventor trying to promote the manufacture of suction-like shoes and an improved life-and-limb saving parachute for steelworkers. Naturally it is limited, but Baby Sandy has her first speaking dialogue in this picture.

Jewel Thieves At Work.

Continuing through Friday are "Girl In 313" and "Lucky Cisco Kid" at the Madison. The former is a story of a heroine who checkmated death with romance. Outwitting a desperate gang of jewel thieves by beating them at their own game, the smart leading lady, played by Florence Rice, didn't count on romance in her plans. Kent Taylor is her leading man. The co-feature stars Cesar Romero and Mary Beth Hughes.

Ranch Plots, Foreign Agents.

The Majestic, being open only on Friday and Saturdays, shows this week the double features "The Return of Wild Bill" and "Passport to Alcatraz." In the former, Bill Elliott and Iris Meredith are in the leads in a picture which deals with a plot to get possession of ranch lands. Jack Holt stars in the latter which deals with the subject, "are secret foreign agents carrying Europe's war to American soil."

Seven Marooned In Jungle.

Six men and one lovely woman marooned hundreds of miles from civilization in a dense Amazon jungle is the premise of "Green Hell" which is showing at the Ritz. Joan Bennett co-stars with Douglas Fairbanks, jr., in this tale in which a cultured refined woman inadvertently finds herself a captive of the jungle, with these men. The second feature is "Danger on Wheels," with Richard Arlen and Andy Devine in the leading roles.

Childhood Problems.

The eternal struggle between parental authority and juvenile desires is the basis for the comedy and drama in "Little Orvie" which is the Booth Tarkington story showing at the Park. John Sheffield plays the title role. A feature of the entertainment at the Park is a stage show featuring the Blond-bombshell, Mary Marshall, and her all-girl band, which performs three times daily through Saturday. The second picture is "Pioneers of the West" in which the three mesquiteers are featured

Booth Tarkington's "LITTLE ORVIE"

GIRL STUDIES MECHANIC JOB

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — (U.P.) — Unable to find employment in the music world, Miss Jessie Elinor Walizer, 25-year-old harpist, is taking lessons to become an airport "grease monkey."

Miss Walizer, who says she is "crazy about tinkering with motors," first discovered her mechanical inclinations when the 13-year-old family car broke down. Lacking funds for the necessary repairs, she overhauled the motor herself.

She is now taking a course in aviation mechanics under a scholarship extended bythe Civil Aeronautics Authority.

PAM HAS JUST TOLD DAVID SHE KNOWS THE TRUTH!
WHEN IT CAME TO ME I WAS REALLY — BLIND, DAVID I WAS TERRIBLY STUNNED, AND THEN BITTER. VERY BITTER — AND I WEPT — FOR HOURS AND THEN I REALIZED HOW WICKED —
7-4
—THAT WAS! — I HAD BEEN GRANTED LIFE — I MIGHT HAVE BEEN KILLED IN THAT TERRIBLE WRECK — TWO OF THOSE MEN HAVE DIED — BUT I WAS SPARED, AND I OUGHT TO BE THANK FUL!
OH, MY PRECIOUS, BRAVE DARLING!
—IT MEANS A — A COMPLETE READJUST- MENT OF MY LIFE, DAVID — AND — IT IS HARD TO SAY — BUT — I — I LOVE YOU TOO MUCH TO LET YOU MARRY ME NOW, DAVID!
PAM, DEAR, DON'T — DON'T SAY THAT!
—DON'T YOU KNOW LIFE MEANS NOTHING TO ME WITHOUT YOU?
NO, DAVID! — YOU MUST NOT WRECK YOUR LIFE — TIE YOURSELF DOWN TO A BLIND WIFE! — YOU ARE YOUNG AND ACTIVE, THE WORLD NEEDS YOU — YOUR WORK!
CAN DAVID PERSUADE PAM TO MARRY HIM?

PANIC BREAKS OUT ON LINER HIT BY NAZIS

Prisoners Fight for Places In Lifeboats; Most of Crew Saved.

Star announced a "fair proportion" of the crew was saved Verinder, the young steward, said the last he saw of Capt. E. W. Moulton "was when he coolly asked a man to fetch him a glass of water.

"The bridge was protected with barbed wire, and I knew as I saw him standing there that the captain would never get away."

Verinder said the prisoners "were frightful. If they had not panicked so completely, many more men, particularly Englishmen, would have escaped."

"As they rushed to the lifeboats with the idea of every man for himself," he related, "the soldiers and crew had to threaten them. I even saw one German sailor, who seemed to have a lot more sense than the rest, take a rifle and club his compatriots.

"Some of the Italians tried to take large suitcases with them into the lifeboats," the steward said. "They simply did not seem to understand there was room only for the men.

"The decks were a sea of faces as she went down and I could see windlasses and other objects moving into the crowd of men as she made her final heel over. A cloud of steam rose 100 feet into the air and the suction dragged liferafts and men down with her. I shall never forget those horror..."

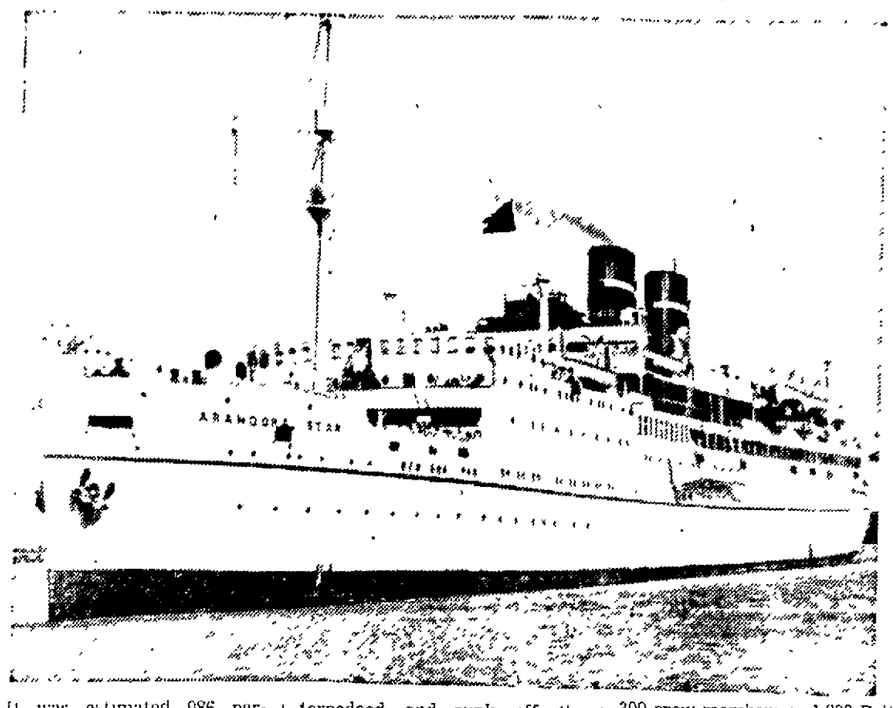
The steward said the Germans and Austrians among the prisoners began fighting on the first day out, when the Austrians objected to the Germans raising a Nazi flag in the deck space allotted the internees. They had to be separated by guards, he said.

James Frost, another crew member, said he "felt sorry for the Italians, whose average age was about 60. They didn't know what to do and many of them hung on to the ship for dear life. Some of them were quite British, having lived in England all their lives."

"Three dozen lifeboats for nearly 2,000 people," he said. "One boat carried away in the explosion, and another, weighed down with hundreds of people trying to get away in it, smashed to pieces with the davits rolling down on top of them."

Frost, whose boat was the last to leave, said the soldiers fired their rifles as a warning to keep away Italians who "were fighting on deck and trying to clamber down the lifelines. Otherwise our boat would have suffered the same fate."

Nazis Sink British Prison Ship



It was estimated 986 persons, mostly interned Germans and Italians, died when the British liner Arandora Star was torpedoed and sunk off the coast of Ireland enroute to Canada. The ship carried 1,500 German and Italian internees, 300 crew members and 200 British soldiers who were on board to guard the prisoners, who were being taken to Canadian internment camps.

Richland Wheat Crop Late But Higher Prices Loom

CROP BIGGER, BETTER THAN PREDICTIONS

Farm Experts Believe Prices Will Be Eight to Twelve Cents Higher Here.

Delayed nearly two weeks by wet, cold spring weather, Richland county's wheat harvest probably will not get under way before July 15, Mansfield millers predicted yesterday.

It will be worth waiting for the late wheat crop, however millers said, for indications point to a much better price for wheat this year than in 1939 when a huge crop over most of the nation kept prices down.

The late harvest will not be confined to the county and northcentral Ohio. Wheat cutting has just started in the western states where it usually is much earlier than in Ohio, and similar conditions were reported from virtually every other wheat-producing region.

Unless the heavy rains continue up to harvest time, Richland county farmers will have a bumper wheat crop this summer and the grain will be of better quality than crop experts predicted.

Farmers in most sections of the county said their grain had not been damaged much by rust and smut despite the wet weather. They said the cool weather had helped to prevent the spread of diseases that afflict wheat.

Barring a surprise slump in the grain market, county farmers should get from eight to 12 cents more per bushel for their grain this year than a year ago, it was said.

The wheat price was up three cents Wednesday to 76 cents for No. 1 grain, an increase of 12 cents over the market figure at the opening of last year's harvest season early in July.

Reports from the state crop reporting bureau rank Ohio third as a wheat producing state this year, J. O. Hanley, Mansfield grain dealer, said yesterday. The state usually is fifth in wheat, but dry weather and rust damage to grain in large sections of the west and southwest will reduce production sharply in those sections, Hanley pointed out.

A larger number of Richland county farmers than ever before will use combines to harvest their wheat this year, cutting it and threshing it at the same time.

Some of them are expected to have trouble with combine harvesting, however, for the straw is unusually heavy and some of the grain has been blown down by the wind, making it difficult for the combine to reach it.

Court Receipts In June Show Boost Over May's Total

Municipal court receipts totaling $2,361 in June showed a slight increase over revenue collected in May, the monthly report of collections prepared by Miss Isabel Gertsmeyer, deputy clerk, disclosed today.

Largest increase was shown in fines and costs in criminal cases which totaled $568, an increase of $241 above the total in May.

From the total receipts, the city's general fund will be increased $1,809 from $1,499 taken in criminal cases and $310 derived from costs in civil actions.

A total of $552 will be distributed to the state and county as its share in cases filed in municipal court.

HOSPITAL ROOM WEDDING SCENE

Injured Father Asks Change In Ceremony Plans.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Ernest S. Colvin, telegraph editor of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, can't get home to give his daughter in marriage, so he's bringing the wedding here—to his hospital room.

Colvin suffered a broken leg in an automobile accident near here June 8. Rather than postpone the wedding, scheduled for Saturday night in St. Louis, he persuaded his daughter, Helen Jane, and her fiance, Richard Zaremba, a photographer, to come here for the ceremony.

SALE OPPOSED

Marquette Airlines Change Held Up By C. A. A.

WASHINGTON— (AP)— The proposed sale of Marquette Airlines, Inc., serving Toledo, Dayton and Cincinnati, O., on its 568-mile route, has met opposition from the civil aeronautics authority.

The CAA denied Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., permission to purchase the Marquette company for $850,000. John E. McKelvy of Pittsburgh owns Marquette, which has a certificate to fly a route from Detroit to St. Louis.

GERMAN LOSSES

LONDON—(AP)—British military circles estimated today that Germany's total casualties since May 10, when Germany launched her westward drive against the Lowlands and France, have been about 400,000.

Avert Tie-Up of Pacific Coast Shipping

The department for Aid for Dependent Children in Mansfield has issued an appeal for glass jars and jelly glasses for the mothers who are being aided by the department. Mrs. Katherine McMichael, head of the department here, says that the mothers who are trying to support their children in their homes, are eager to preserve food for the winter; that they are willing to pick cherries and berries on the shares and to purchase surplus garden and farm commodities if the price is within their income reach. Many of them are unable to purchase jars for preserving foods. Anyone who has jars or surplus food to contribute can reach the mothers through Mrs. McMichael, Canal 3206.

Even if they don't feel like biting, fish will find it a tough job getting around all the hooks being dropped today in the Charles Mill dam fishing grounds. Scores of fishermen stayed all night and hundreds of other holiday anglers joined them early this morning. A steady stream of autos traveled the road bordering the lake area beginning at dawn today. Mansfield's all-night restaurants got a big play from fishermen from distant points arriving early to try their luck in the Muskingum dam waters.

The Richland county schools make no claims of having the best attendance in the state, but they were second in Ohio in promptness in filing their annual attendance report with the state department of education. Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, and the high school superintendents in the rural schools were commended by officials of the state department for getting their statistics ready so early.

EXCURSION SET

Reservations Being Made For Greenfield Village Trip.

Reservations are being received at the Y. M. C. A. for the excursion to Greenfield Village and Edison Institute which the Y. M. C. A. Hobby club is sponsoring on July 13 and 14, according to Don Cram, physical director.

The excursion is open to the public and reservations must be made before July 13, Cram said today. He explained that $8 covers the cost of transportation, hotel accommodations, bus fare and admission to the village. Meals must be paid for by excursionists.

Greenfield Village, maintained by Henry Ford, combines the greatest single collection of early Americana in the world. The Edison Institute is devoted to products of the genius of the late Thomas A. Edison.

The excursion train will leave over the Pennsylvania railroad Saturday, July 13, at 4:20 p. m. and will arrive in Detroit at 7:55 p. m.

NEWSBOY ENDS POLICE CHASE

Fugitive Knocked Down By Folded Newspaper.

KINSTON, N. C.—(AP)—It looked like Policeman Bernard Dail wasn't going to catch his man. They raced down street after street.

The fugitive, suspected of having a pistol whizzed by Robert Brown Lee, a newsboy.

Lee hurled a folded newspaper at him, struck him on the temple and knocked him from the sidewalk into a parking space.

MAPS PLEA ON ROOF DRAINAGE

Mayor to Ask Property Owners to Turn Storm Waters From Sewers to Streets.

One of the immediate results of the roof water drainage survey just completed by WPA, will be an appeal to every property owner in the city whose roof water is being drained into a sanitary sewer, Mayor W. J. Locke said today.

The report of the survey, presented to city council Tuesday night, shows that 53 acres of roofs drain water into the sanitary sewers of the city instead of the storm sewers, thereby causing sewage to back into cellars during heavy rainfalls.

Locke said that an appeal will be made to every home owner within the next few weeks, asking them to divert the roof waters voluntarily. Where storm sewers are available the water can be turned into them, but where they aren't, the drainage can be piped to run over sidewalks into gutters or into yards. This, he said, can be done with little expense to property owners.

"I don't think there are people in Mansfield who would willingly dump sewage into their neighbor's basements, but that is actually what they are doing when they permit roof drainage to run into the sanitary sewers," Locke said today. "The problem is an acute one in Mansfield. It has been for a number of years and it has been considered 'political dynamite' for any administration to try to rectify it by forcing property owners to comply with the law. But that is what we propose to do, and we hope to have the co-operation of property owners."

REPORT MINE SINKS LINER

Berlin Says French Ship Lost In Atlantic.

BERLIN —(AP)—The 28,124-ton French liner Champlain struck a mine and sank in the Atlantic several days ago while en route to America with many passengers, the German press reports.

All the passengers were saved, but a few crew members perished, these accounts said.

The Champlain, built in 1932 once was the pride of the French lines. At the outbreak of war last September, the Champlain was held in New York harbor and jammed gay. She rosed out suddenly the night of Sept. 11, carrying 450 members of the crew of the Ile de France.

Twice the Champlain brought loads of refugees to New York from Europe.

STRIKE DELAYED

Negotiations In Aluminum Dispute Recessed.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A threatened strike in the aluminum industry, a vital part of the national defense program, hung in abeyance today during a lull in conferences between officials of the Aluminum Company of America and a CIO union seeking a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase for 15,000 employes.

After conferring with representatives of the company and the Aluminum Workers union, Dr. Joan B. Steelman, head of the federal conciliation service, announced last night that negotiations had been adjourned until Friday.

TEETH DEFECTS MOST COMMON AILMENT AMONG 500 EXAMINED

Tooth defects are the chief physical ailment of nearly 500 children in Richland county who will enter city and township schools for the first time in September.

This was revealed today by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, on completion of figures compiled from examinations conducted at pre-school clinics throughout the county under the supervision of the health department.

A total of 470 children of pre-school age were examined at the clinics. Of that number, 280 or 53 per cent were found to have bad teeth, the commissioner said.

Of the 321 children examined, 193 had dental defects; 32 or nearly eight per cent had poor vision, 29 were found to be suffering from glandular ailments, 28 from malnutrition, and 26 had defective tonsils.

Dr. Rehder's report showed that 176 children had not been vaccinated for smallpox—mandatory before they can enter the city schools. Nearly 80 per cent of 286 had not been immunized against diphtheria.

The figures disclosed that of the 149 children examined in Richland county, 87 had dental defects while 25 or 13 per cent were afflicted with tonsil ailments. Twenty-one had glandular defects, 16 had defective hearing and 11 poor vision.

A total of 64 per cent of 96 of those examined had not been vaccinated for smallpox and 80 per cent or 120 were without benefit of protection against diphtheria.

Dr. Rehder said that of those examined, representing all school districts in the city and county, 88 had defects corrected as compared to only 24 found with corrections last year when a total of 402 children visited the clinics.

SEEKS TRANSFER

Lucas Wants to Shift Funds For Water Line Expansion.

In a petition on file yesterday in common pleas court, the village of Lucas seeks court authority to transfer $3,100 from the village light fund to the water fund to finance a water line expansion program.

The board of public affairs points out in the petition that the proposed project will cost $4,000 and the village has only $900 in the water fund to finance it. There is at least $3,100 in unencumbered money in the light fund, the petition states.

The request was filed by Atty. Van C. Cook, village solicitor, who said the transfer had already been approved by the state board of tax appeals.

STRIKE CALLED OFF BY MARINE UNION LEADERS

Tentative Agreement Reached With Shipowners Shortly After Midnight.

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — A strike of marine cooks and stewards, which threatened to disrupt a major portion of Pacific coast shipping, was called off early today when negotiators for the union and shipowners reached a tentative agreement.

Announcement of the agreement came only a few minutes past last midnight, the time set by the cooks and stewards to start the walkout.

It followed receipt by the union of a telegram from Labor Secretary Frances Perkins strongly urging adjustment of issues, and intervention for settlement by Harry Bridges, maritime labor leader.

The strike, originally scheduled to start last Sunday midnight, was postponed 72 hours by the union when federal authorities asked further attempts at negotiation.

Complete details of the tentative agreement were not disclosed at once, but the union announced it had settled the "principal points in dispute," which involved hiring of certain key personnel, and wage and hour adjustments.

Secretary Perkins said that gains previously agreed upon in negotiations represented "substantial improvement for labor" and that she believed there was "merit" to the major employer demands without endangering the rights of the union.

"I strongly urge in the public interest as well as that of labor that you come to an agreement promptly with the Pacific American shipowners," she said.

Bridges entered the negotiations directly at the request of Sidney Hillman, CIO vice president and a member of national advisory committee on national defense.

The union said that the tentative agreement was reached after a proposal had been submitted by the labor leader.

The proposed strike, outgrowth of nearly 10 months negotiations for a new contract, would have called out between 3,000 and 5,000 members of the cooks and stewards, but nearly 30,000 other maritime workers and some 200 ships would have been affected because of picket lines.

The ships are west coast offshore and intercoastal vessels, which represent between 50 and 60 per cent of the coast's marine traffic, and practically all of the American trans-Pacific trade.

Foreign ships, vessels operated by eastern firms and coastwise freighters were not affected.

DRIVER HELD

Crestline Motorist Jailed After Traffic Mishap.

Arrested last night by police following a traffic accident at East Fourth and Adams streets, Harold J. Greter, Crestline, was held in the city jail today on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated.

Officers said Greter's car collided with one driven by Mrs. Minnie Reindt, 151 West Third street, about 10 p. m., injuring Urban McCarthy, Mansfield, Greter's companion.

McCarthy, suffering from a deep head wound, wandered away from the accident scene and was found 15 minutes later on North Mulberry street near Fifth street, police said. He was treated at the hospital.

Meanwhile, it was reported today at General hospital that Jay C. Wells, 23, of Wichita Falls, Texas, seriously injured Monday on Ashland road, was considerably improved.

The Voice of BROADWAY

You Can't Print That!

(This is a compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If there is any resemblance in them to actual persons, living or dead—you've probably guessed right.)

Betty B. was one of the screen's more boisterous comediennes, and no one—even in Hollywood, where anything can happen and always does—would ever imagine that her life would have anything to do with the life of Mary Y., the little girl star, who is in the Deanna Durbin league, but younger than Deanna.

Recently Betty came east on a personal appearance tour, leaving behind her bridegroom of a few months, and she wasn't as far as Chicago when rumors broke in the gossip columns to the effect that she and her husband were splitting. She just emphatically denied the rumors.

And she was sincere in denying them.

But when she got back to the coast she found out that she was wrong, and the columns were right. Because the "innocent" child prodigy had stolen Betty's husband with a technique that would have made Theda Bara blush!

(But you can't print that. The mothers of the Mary Y. fan club children would be horrified, and it might hurt the box office!)

One of the town's most successful press agents is a young and good looking fellow named Johnny A. His genius as a space-grabber has launched more romances than the summer moon over Central park; if you hold hands with a girl in the night club he publicizes you're a marriage rumor in the papers the next day. You can't keep a secret from him—he can scent a love affair a mile off.

In all his life he's only kept one secret. Four years ago he was married to a show girl playing "On Your Toes." He married her, honeymooned with her, and divorced her, without anyone finding out—and to this day not even his own family knows about it!

Geraldine Q. is one of the most successful models in the business. You couldn't possibly have missed her pretty face on the magazine covers—or her pretty figure in the bathing suit and lingerie ads. The other night she was out doing the gay spots with a wealthy admirer when a group of drab, work-worn women spotted her on the street and rushed over to offer their congratulations on her splendid success.

The escort was all for brushing them aside, thinking they annoyed the glamor girl, but she said gently, "Just a moment, dear. I want to speak to my friends."

Naturally, the Prince Charming was astonished to find that Geraldine was on speaking terms with these weary women from another strata.

He couldn't know Geraldine's whole story. How this beautiful girl came to the Big Town with her kid brother, and found that her job as a movie-house cashier wasn't enough to keep them both going, and how one day she had answered an ad for models. She didn't get the job as a model, but on her way out of the building she noticed a sign in the lobby announcing that a scrubwoman was wanted.

She took that job, and for three months she hit a cash register by day and until midnight, and scrubbed floors until almost dawn. The women she had greeted on the street were fellow members of the lobby-washing corps.

(But you can't print that. You'd make so many playboys about town bitterly unhappy if they knew their sought-after glamor girl was an ex-scrubwoman!)

Mr. R. G. K. became one of the most widely accepted members of eastern society largely because of his personal charm and exceptional wit. He hails from the midwest and made noticeable advances along Mayfair when a tidy legacy from his late father came his way. Now he's a leader at Newport, and owns one of the resort's most famous homes.

These days the Newport crowd has busily engaged itself in raising charity funds for Allied relief. It's quite the vogue, and Mr. R. G. K. is one of the busiest workers.

Yet, oddly enough, there are those who feel that Mr. R. G. K.'s heart isn't quite in it.

(But you can't print that. It might come out that Mr. R. G. K. is a bosom pal of none other foreign personage that Sir Oswald Mosley!)

Ann B. is a stage and screen actress, but none of her make-believe roles has ever equalled the one she has played in real life. She'd be queen of the stage today but for the fact that every time she attained the heights she'd mysteriously drop out of the Broadway picture and come back a year or so later to start the climb again. She owes every bit of her fortune—and misfortune—to one man, a celebrated, successful and highly respected producer. She has starred in the theater in his best known legitimate productions, the ones which shot her to the pinnacle.

But she also starred (in private) as mother of his two children, and this was what dropped her into enforced oblivion.

The glow is coming back to her cheeks these days, and the outlook on her career is beginning to brighten. At last she can breathe freely in the knowledge that if she does succeed in building her reputation again he won't be interested in helping her lose it.

Because the producer has decided to turn over a legitimate leaf. He's decided marriage is the only thing—marriage with another girl!

(But you can't print that. The scandal would ruin them both, and she certainly deserves a kinder fate, even if he deserves a worse one.)

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Paul Whiteman brought his genial double chin and band—beg pardon, orchestra—to town to "Strike Up the Band."

His stay, this time, was different. The last time he made a movie in Hollywood he and the gang stayed a while. Their latest visit was for a mere five days, or long enough to do their sequences for the Mickey Rooney-Judy Garland musical. Metro did not bother, as Universal once did, to throw up a lavish rustic bungalow to accommodate them. The movie business has changed, but the King of Jazz, himself, has changed little.

He still doesn't fancy himself as a movie actor, although "The King of Jazz," his one starring picture, finally grossed somewhere around $1,000,000 throughout the world.

"Here's one fiddler," he said, "who isn't looking for a chance to act. If they give me any dialogue, they'll have to tell me how to say it."

* * *

Whiteman and orchestra pioneered in making jazz respectable, way back in the twenties. Through changing musical eras and fads, the plump maestro has stuck to music and shied away from "novelties," while still keeping abreast of the trends. He "says it with music" rather than with the cacophonous beating of pipes, together the clanking of chains or the wrecking the kitchen stoves.

The jitterbug, Whiteman observed, is a vanishing species, mostly prevalent now among youngsters of high school and early college years.

In "Strike Up the Band," Rooney plays the leader of an amateur orchestra who is offered a job by Whiteman when the kids take over during an intermission. Mickey, a song-writer and no mean musican himself on the side, learned a few things from Whiteman during his visit.

Mickey was sitting behind the camera tapping a rhythm on his knees, when Whiteman came over and challenged him. "Can you do this one?"

Whiteman sat down and began a complicated series of toe-tappings, hand-clapping, and knee-slappings. Mickey tried it, while a crowd gathered around, and he got nowhere. He tried it again, and again, and still didn't make it.

"That," said Whiteman, "is what I ask my boys when they think they know more about rhythm than I do."

* * *

The maestro's last film work was in "Thanks a Million," the Dick Powell picture, and the Whiteman sequences were made in New York. He was such a stranger to movie ways, this trip out, that he actually conducted and the orchestra played during a scene. But he got the hang of it quickly—he conducted and the orchestra merely went through the motions of playing "My Wonderful One." He even took a convincing bow when the extras dancing gave him "silent" applause.

The big Whiteman number in the film is "When Day Is Done"—played according to his old, original arrangement.

BRITISH FIGHT FRENCH FLEET TO RETAIN IT

Nazis Sink Prison Ship on Way to Canada With Axis Soldiers.

ment on the situation to parliament this afternoon.

News of the action against the French fleet—the disposition of which has been a grave problem for Britain ever since France's capitulation to Germany — was given to the country shortly after announcement that a German submarine had torpedoed a British prison ship, with approximately 1,000 persons, most of them Germans and Italians, reported killed or drowned.

The vessel was the 15,501-ton converted cruise liner Arandora Star, sunk Tuesday en route to Canada with 1,500 prisoners and 500 guards and crew members. About 1,000 survivors, including most of the crew, reached Scotland. They reported many were killed in fights for lifeboats.

The Daily Herald said 968 lives were lost.

Germany herself had announced torpedoing of the vessel by one of her submarines—before, however, Britain disclosed that most of the passengers were German and Italian.

The ministry of information in announcing the action against the French fleet did not disclose the number of men of war involved. The placing of French warships in British ports "under British control" was "successfully carried out," the ministry said simply.

Of the French ships in North Africa, the ministry said:

"French vessels in ports of North Africa were offered certain conditions designed solely for the purpose of keeping them out of German hands.

"It was explained to the officer in command that if none of these conditions were accepted, Great Britain was prepared to take every step in order to ensure that none of these vessels should be used against her for the future prosecution of the war.

"His Majesty's government deeply regret that the French admiral in command at Oran refused to accept any of the conditions proposed, with the inevitable result that action had to be taken against the French vessels in that locality.

"These operations are still proceeding."

Oran, Algerian port, is about 275 miles east of Gibraltar.

The French-German armistice provided that all French naval vessels return to home ports for disarmament or internment. Churchill on June 25 told parliament that in making these terms the French had broken their promises not to let their fleet fall into enemy hands, and that it was "clear that French war vessels under this armistice pass into German or Italian control fully armed."

On the same day, June 25, Lord Caldecote, dominion secretary, foreshadowed today's action by announcing that Churchill would "relax no effort to secure that the French ships will continue to serve the cause for which they have been employed so many months."

Strong units were known to have been at Alexandria, where they gathered with British vessels to guard this strategic Mediterranean area near the entrance to the Suez canal. Other French warships have been reported in number at Tunis and Algiers, on the southern Mediterranean, and at Casablanca, on the Atlantic coast of French Morocco.

The information ministry recalled that France had agreed to "allow their fleet to pass into the hands of the enemy" relying "upon the promises of Germany and Italy not to use her fleet" against Britain.

The British government, however, "having lost all faith in promises made by the governments of Germany and Italy, felt that they were compelled, not only in their own interests, but also in the hope of restoring the independence of France and the integrity of the French empire, to take steps before it was too late to ensure that the French fleet should not be used against them by the common enemy," the ministry said.

Churchill called upon King George at Buckingham palace last night, presumably to discuss the latest developments in advance of his appearance before commons today.

The government announced today seven persons were killed and 77 wounded in yesterday's German air raids on the British Isles, one of those killed being the engineer of a passenger train struck while en route between two south coast towns. The 24-hour total of raid casualties was 20 killed and 197 wounded.

(DNB, the official German news agency, reported in Berlin that 16 persons were killed and 20 injured in a bomb attack on Barmbeck, a suburb of Hamburg.)

Hungary Hides Her Fighting Planes.

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST — (AP) — Hungary ordered military airports cleared of planes today to prevent their destruction by surprise attack as warlike preparations neared completion, and through propaganda continued to build up her case for occupation of Transylvania.

But at the same time, there was evidence she still was trying for peaceful settlement of her claims to the rich province Rumania gained from the Austro-Hungarian empire at the end of the World war.

The Hungarian minister to Yugoslavia, Baron Gyorgy Takack-Besseney, returned to Belgrade after conferring with Foreign Minister Count Istvan Csaky. Informed quarters said he took back the government's views on Yugoslav efforts to mediate.

Rumanian Cabinet Out, New One Due.

BULLETIN

BUCHAREST — (AP) — Rumania's new Nazi-Fascist regime was ushered in today with a change of governments bringing formation of a new cabinet headed by Ion Gigurtu, a staunch friend of Nazi Germany.

Like Hitler and Musssolini, Gigurtu become the chief of the government as well as the head of the nation's single political party.

BULLETIN

BUCHAREST —(AP)— British official sources said today British oilmen in Rumania have been given 24 hours in which to leave the country.

BUCHAREST — (AP) — The Rumanian government of Premier Tatarescu resigned this morning, and a new cabinet, strongly nationalistic but along pro-German lines, was awaited.

Informed circles said Ion Gigurtu, recently appointed foreign minister and a staunch friend of Nazi Germany, had been asked to form a new cabinet.

Several members of the former Goga anti-Semitic government will be included, it was said.

Gigurtu today was named by King Carol II as chief of the party of the nation, a move interpreted by diplomatic circles as a further bid for closer relations with Berlin.

German Farmers Return to Alsace.

BASEL, Switzerland—(AP)—Ten thousand German-speaking farmers and peasants of Alsace and Loraine have returned to their homes from southern France, it was learned today, although isolated French units in those provinces were reported still resisting Nazi troops.

The vanguard of 700 was led by pro-German Alsatians and officers of the German army of occupation.

The officers and civilian aides rounded up groups in a refugee center in southern France to be repatriated to the provinces which were ruled by Germany from 1871 to the end of the World war.

Since Sunday, there has been a constant flow back into frontier regions, where fields had stood deserted—tangles of weeds and tall grass—since the start of the war in September.

Italian Troops Push Into Egypt.

ROME—(AP)—The Italian high command reported today that Italian troops from Libya have pushed across the Egyptian frontier to Musaid, near Sollum, while native Dubat troops from Ethiopia have occupied the British fort at Mojale on the Kenya border.

The communique said:

On the Cyrenaican front our column reached Emusaid, in the Sollum zone, throwing back small groups of armored cars while our air force attacked and dispersed an enemy mortorized column.

Further south repeated English attacks on the Capuzzo redoubt were completed repulsed.

One of our submarines has not returned to its base.

In East Africa, our Duhats occupied the fort at Mojale, keeping it despite fruitless air raids with which the enemy reacted.

On the Sudan frontier our squadrons bombed enemy fortresses at Akopo and Gallabat.

An enemy air raid on Assab caused slight damage.

Democratic Party Left Me, Declares Willkie, Enjoying Heckling About It

His Argument With U. S. Over TVA Power Put Him In Limelight.

Editor's Note — This is the third and last of a series of articles on Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential nominee.

* * *

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature Service Writer)

"Tell him," said Wendell Willkie, "that I haven't left the Democratic party: the Democratic party left me."

It's the stock reply when people ask why the president of Commonwealth and Southern and his wife changed their registration to Republican, why Willkie turned from a New Deal booster who put $150 in the campaign pot for Roosevelt in 1932, into a Republican leader.

Willkie, with his blaring, fresh Indiana voice, enjoys giving that answer when a heckler from the gallery pops the question, and it wows the audience.

Since childhood, Willkie has believed in individual freedom. He holds, too, that large corporations sanely run are efficient, and give management an opportunity to serve the public at bargain prices, where smaller units fail.

His Is a One-Man Show.

Willkie knows this corporation efficiency stems from one-man or small-group decisions. By many accounts, he himself is a one-man boss of the system he runs, a system spread through ten operating companies into several states.

And yet this same Willkie is a passionate believer in the federal system of government with maximum freedom for individuals, and decentralized government of the states in a country whose Supreme Court has recently recognized that state lines have been dimmed by nationally operated corporations, transport lines, distribution systems.

Willkie says the problem of America often has been big business' abuse of its powers, but that now it's the problem of big government abusing business.

His argument stems from his fight with Dave Lilienthal, another Indiana boy who made good, but in the New Deal with TVA. Willkie fought TVA because it invaded his Tennessee public utility zone. He argued there's no soap for either consumer, government, or private corporation if you have two sets of power plants and power lines serving the same communities.

A rough and tumble speaker who loves good argument.

And in the heat of the fight, with Congress pouring more and more millions into TVA, he proposed to sell out. Suspicious, New Dealers took a deep breath, backed a national power policy committee and renewed the scrap.

Eventually, they decided Willkie meant business. Thus Wendell Willkie lost the fight, but he won a war.

"His constant shrieking was worth $30,000,000 to Commonwealth & Southern," a New Deal bigwig is supposed to have said.

For the government paid $78,600,000 to Willkie to abandon TVA territory—$30,000,000 more than they had planned to. And the fight gave Willkie a national reputation.

The Willkie boom for President began on the typewriter of his secretary, clicking out the Willkie philosophy in magazine articles, speeches.

Gen. Hugh Johnson and Arthur Krock asked newspaper readers why Willkie was not presidential material. Elihu Root's grandson, Oren Root, jr., stepped out of a New York law firm, and started Willkie-for-President clubs.

More astonishing was Russel W. Davenport's reaction to Willkie's article in "Fortune," outlining an American creed. Davenport, managing editor of the magazine, quit his job and went to work for Willkie for President early this spring.

"I tried to tell him I thought he was making a serious mistake," says Willkie.

Willkie is careless of clothes and hair. He admits he thinks an Indiana twang and shabbiness of dress is an asset in his business. He owns up to a joint fortune with his wife of a half million dollars.

A man of brutal candor, yet he is full of all the tricks of the oratorical trade, a political "it" man who bowled over a presidential nomination with a crew of amateurs.

"It's not me! it's the trend!" That's Willkie's explanation of it.

Bills for Military Service and Additional Arms Funds to Come Up Soon.

posal — the Burke-Wadsworth military training bill—already is pending on Capitol hill. Committees in both houses planned to proceed with its consideration without awaiting the chief executive's recommendations.

General John J. Pershing and President James B. Conant of Harvard endorsed a compulsory military training law yesterday and urged the senate military committee to favor passage of the pending bill.

While the new defense program was being considered at a White House conference yesterday, the senate naval committee voted to recommend passage of the house-approved "two-ocean navy" bill which would authorize a 70 per cent increase in the fleet's strength.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) told reporters he understood that funds to make a start on this huge undertaking would be requested in the new $5,000,000,000 program. Informed estimates were that $4,000,000,000 would be sought for the army and the rest for the navy.

The naval committee gave unanimous approval to the bill after it had voted 9-to-5 to report favorably the nomination of Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, to be secretary of the navy.

Senate leaders planned to start consideration Monday of Knox's nomination and that of Henry L. Stimson as secretary of war. The military committee approved Stimson's nomination Tuesday.

FORECAST HULL RUNNING MATE

Observers Predict Secretary of State Will Team Up With Roosevelt.

political discussion, and may even be en route to the Pan-American conference in Havana while the Democratic convention is meeting.

Those who believe Mr. Roosevelt will break precedent and agree to carry his party's standard once more contend that he will be impelled by the European crisis and American defense needs. For that reason, they picture Secretary Hull as a logical running mate, since he is the cabinet member handling foreign relations.

One small group of politicians has expressed the theory that the president might accept renomination with the understanding that if elected he would serve only while an emergency existed. In such a case, the vice president would step into his office.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic floor leader, made light of this last conjecture in talking with reporters.

While asserting he did not know what the president would do about the nomination, Barkley said that "confusion and chaos" were likely to result if he declined to run after the balloting started week after next.

Vice President Garner, Senator Wheeler of Montana, and Postmaster General Farley, or their supporters, have said in the past that their names would be presented to the convention no matter what the president does.

But friends of Garner said yesterday that the vice president would leave it to his managers whether to place him in nomination and that he was not planning to go to Chicago for the convention.

$750,000 TO STATE

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Partial payment of inheritance taxes on the estate of William McKell, millionaire West Virginia coal operator who died last Aug. 24, at a cousin's home in Chillicothe, O., gave the state $750,000 today.

It was described as "probably the largest" payment ever received here on an individual estate. The McKell fortune, appraised at more than $12,000,000, was bequeathed chiefly to five cousins.

THREE INDICTED

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Three Columbus men were indicted yesterday on charges of attempting to defraud the state by offering a second time sales tax stamps for redemption at three per cent of face value. They were Clarence L. Waterman, suspended state auditor's examiner, Walter Bowers, former probate court file clerk, and Russell Brown.

Citizens Menaced, Boys Get Target Shooting Warning

Sheriff E. P. Long said yesterday he had received a number of complaints about boys shooting rifles in thickly populated sections, and warned that unless the practice is stopped, the youths will be brought into juvenile court.

"A woman reported that a bullet struck her house near a window and a man said another narrowly missed him while he was picking cherries," the sheriff said.

"That carelessness and disregard for the rights of others must stop, and we are going to make arrests the next time we find boys shooting toward houses or wherever some one might be hit," he asserted.

"If boys must do target practice, they had better find a natural backstop for the bullets such as a steep cliff or a cement wall," the sheriff added.

He Goes To Pet Hospital To Get Away From All the Noise.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Five years ago "Skippy," a small house dog, became so disturbed by popping firecrackers his owners took him to a pet hospital for peace and quiet until the noise of the Fourth of July is over.

The move was repeated the next three years.

Today "Skippy" showed up unescorted at the hospital, a mile from his home, to beg retreat from firecrackers, skyrockets and the like.

FOUR COMMON SAFETY RULES

State Says Drive, Drink, Play and Eat Sanely — Live After Today's Holiday.

About picnic lunches, Dr. Markwith advised Ohioans to prepare simple foods and avoid "conglomerations" or various edibles. For those planning a long trip before eating the traditional lunch, he advised the use of ice or dry ice to keep the food fresh.

"Food is easily tainted under a hot sun," he stated.

In regards to sunburns and dangerous firecracker burns, Dr. Markwith urged immediate first aid and then teatment by the nearest physician.

"Firecracker burns, especially often cause lock-jaw unless treated immediately," he said.

If babies are taken on the long auto trips, the health director suggested a basket or car swing so they can stretch their arms and legs. He also warned to keep the babies out of the wind and hot sun.

A few other simple rules for a safe and sane Fourth were also outlined by Dr. Markwith. They include:

1—Don't swim in unguarded pools unless you are an expert swimmer.

2—Don't "improvise" firecrackers from carbide, etc., those sold by merchants are dangerous enough.

3—Don't hold firecrackers in your fingers. They're the only fingers you'll ever have.

4—Don't stand up in canoes or rowboats.

5—If you go picnicking or motoring, take a first aid kit along. Everyone may not be as careful as you.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1940.

Pledge of Allegiance To Flag.

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

A Declaration And a Pledge

EXCEPT in uncertainties of those early times in which the Declaration of Independence was adopted, there has been no more serious threat to the nation then established than exists on this one hundred and sixty-fourth anniversary of its signing.

"When, in the course of human events . . . " is the familiar beginning of that great document, which then goes on to set up fundamental principles of freedom: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness . . . "

It was to establish recognition of these rights, and to maintain world respect for them, that early-day American patriots fought against the relatively mild tyranny of that time—mild as compared with the present harsh treatment of liberty-loving people of Europe by ruthless dictators.

Until an awakening that has come within recent weeks a vast majority of the people of the United States have regarded their right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" as unchallenged and in no danger of being taken away from them.

Now they are beginning to wonder, as they consider the fate of France and the desperate plight of Great Britain, following the wiping out of many of Europe's small independent nations by the military might of Nazi, Fascist and Communist dictators.

It has been the opening lines of the Declaration of Independence to which most attention has been given. On this anniversary of its adoption it may be well to also consider its closing words: "And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor."

To enjoy privileges it is necessary to assume responsibilities. Our forefathers achieved their goal and handed on the torch to those who followed. Of late we have taken it all for granted. But swift-moving events abroad teach us anew that liberty may not be so lightly held. It has vanished suddenly from peoples who have long felt as sure of it as we. Why? Where did they fail? What must we do to keep it not only alive, but growing, and not for ourselves alone but for mankind? Such serious questions must be answered by us soon, and wisely.

Power Without Glory

"THIS WAR is vastly different from the last one," wrote an English woman recently to the editor of an American magazine. "I think some of us at least have progressed to the stage where we see no glory and splendor in war.

"We are not cheated into hysterical applause by parades of uniforms, flags and martial music. There is a great absence of all this pageantry this time. As a child it seems I was always being taken to windows to see passing parades or to town squares and parks to cheer the men in khaki."

It may be that lack of the drive which comes with that very spirit and gusto has worked against the Allies. The Nazis have played the drama and glory of war for all they are worth.

On the other hand, the fact that even in this most terrible war one side has some idea of the reality of what it is doing may put a mark on the civilized side of the ledger.

Motto Becomes More Fitting

THE national motto, "E Pluribus Unum," is now more fitting than ever. This is, as it was not when the motto was first adopted, one nation derived from many nations and races.

We are going beyond original ideas, too, in New World internationalism. "America" now means both North and South America. In this hemisphere there are more than 20 independent nations which are now being welded into unity by the pressure of foreign danger.

The United States has no thought of encroachment on the less populous countries to the north and south, but it seems inevitable that they will be driven into closer forms of co-operation, without loss of sovereignty, symbolized perhaps by a Pan-American flag.

Strange Story of a Miser

A MISER died in New York recently. She was "Old Aunt Rashe," a strange character who was a collector, a searcher of ashcans, a junk dealer. She lived in a three-room flat supplied only with cold water, and had little furniture except a bed which she did not use because she slept on the floor, for reasons which perhaps an outsider should not try to fathom.

When she died, she had $12,000 in bank deposits, a $25,000 mortgage and a collection of treasures. She might have been living in comfort and doing good to her fellow-creatures.

Aunt Rashe was only one of many such. Miserly old men and women frequently turn up, especially in big cities. They live in poverty and pain, with hoarded wealth at hand. It may be they are as happy as the people who look upon them with pity or contempt. They certainly are not so useful as normal citizens.

Socialites Will See America

THAT famous subscription book, the Social Register, now out in its 1940 summer edition, shows several new trends.

In the first place, it records very few prominent American families living abroad. The expatriates have been coming home in a steady stream ever since the war began last September. Their native land looks good to them these days.

Another trend is the growing interest in ranches and mountain resorts. The movement inland for the summer months is greater than that to shore resorts. No doubt the impelling motive here is not fear of what may happen along the Atlantic coast, but genuine interest in parts of this country and Canada formerly ignored by social registerites.

Cheer-up item: Dorothy Thompson, popular author, missed being a teacher because she flunked in English grammar.

So live that you can regard the recording of your fingerprints as a privilege, not a danger of detection.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Hardly a week goes by that somebody doesn't let loose a blast at Fiorello LaGuardia, New York's indefatigable mayor. These blasts give him no concern whatever. The newest one was loosed at him by one of New York's Italian newspapers, which said it would rather have a Chinaman for a mayor than a "false Italian."

This paper called the mayor a false Italian because Mr. LaGuardia had just let loose ab last at Italy for entering the war. Referring to Hitler and Mussolini as gangsters has been a custom of the mayor's for years. Although of Italian extraction, he says the entry of Italy into the conflict covers Italian history with shame

IF YOU tried to analyze Mr. LaGuardia you wouldn't get anywhere. He is a man who cannot be parsed, because there are too many conflicting elements to his career. He is, first, a Republican. But he was elected mayor on a fusionist ticket. And he is a supporter of Franklin D Roosevelt.

Fiorello is an Italian word that means Little Flower. There has been lots of talk about the Mayor becoming vice president, or at least running on the ticket this fall. To these statements Mr. LaGuardia, who is short and squat and who wears black hats that make Lucius Beebe leap to his feet in horror, says, "How could anyone with a name like Fiorello be elected president?"

The Italians in New York have always played a vital part in its social and its cultural life. There are a great many protestant Italians hereabouts, as well as Catholic. Some time ago a Catholic spokesman made the remark that "no Italian could be a good Italian unless he was Catholic." To this assertion came a blistering rebuttal. However, all animosities were erased after awhile and the various Italian elements became good friends.

LaGuardia himself is Protestant. He is at times a man of some temper. He is a man who cannot sit still when the fire alarms clamor. Scores of conflagrations have found him working shoulder to shoulder through the smoking ruins with the firemen. One wonders when he ever rests. Seldom a day passes that he doesn't dictate hundreds of letters, confer with national and state representatives, travel throughout the five great boroughs, dedicating bridges, or meeting with visitors.

BUT the mayor is not a gladhander in the sense that the still greatly admired Jimmy Walker was. LaGuardia refuses to pose with anybody, merely for "art's sake." He despises red tape. He is politically and constitutionally unconventional. He says only what he believes no matter whom he offends.

All blunt, two-fisted men speak in a two-fisted manner. Once he prevented strikers from picketing a church saying, "You can't picket God in this town." Again, at a convention of Negro physicians and dentists, he told them, "Microbes know no Jim Crow law."

The mayor is seldom taken casually. You either like him or dislike him. Sometimes the newspapers call him "hot headed." But all agree that his administration has been characterized by honesty and vigor—traits that this metropolis has not always enjoyed

How Much Do YOU Pay for Democracy?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

JULY THE FOURTH. Birthday of this Democracy . . . anniversary of freed men.

How much do YOU pay for that democracy?

How much do YOU sacrifice for that priceless gift of freedom?

Recently, in the darkest hour France has ever known, Marshal Petain spoke to his broken people. For them, freedom had ended . . . democracy lay prostrate in the bloody slime. Why? As unflinchingly as he had faced the German tanks, Petain faced the humiliating reality of defeat

France, he said, had been beaten because she had too few soldiers, too few allies, too few arms. But there was still another reason, deeper and more deadly.

"Since the World War victory," he cried, "the spirit of sacrifice has been absent from France That, too, played a part in this defeat."

They "lacked the spirit of sacrifice." Inflated by success . . . arrogant in their triumph . . . overconfident of their superior strength . . . France had forgotten the price she paid for peace She had thought that her countless dead men had bought immunity for their sons . . . that there was no further bill to pay for safety and content Today she realizes her tragic folly!

Fourth of July. Day when we boast of our democracy And talk of Plymouth Rock and Valley Forge . . . of Paul Revere and weary Washington . . . of Lincoln and that speech at Gettysburg . . . of Fremont and the Covered Wagon Trail . . . of all that gallant crew who hewed their way and raised a nation from a wilderness.

Fourth of July. Day when we feast and drink and watch a baseball game. And talk of blood and sweat and agony and tears . . . and all the dreadful price men pay to call their souls their own.

BUT WHAT PRICE HAVE YOU PAID?

Oh, yes—I know. Your fathers died in France . . . or left their bones to bleach in Mexico . . . or lost their scalps in Indian massacres . . . or went out, shrieking, in the Civil war . . . or stayed and froze to shake off Britain's rule . . . or perished on the beach by Plymouth Rock.

Your fathers paid. They bought democracy. They bled and prayed and wept, and plugged like fiends for all the peace and privilege which you have today. They sacrificed their own, long cherished dreams . . . Their safety and their comfort and their lives, that you might live, unharrassed, here today.

Your fathers paid.

What have YOU given of yourself that these United States should still be free? What have YOU sacrificed for all the privileges you enjoy . . . the right to speak and think as you may wish . . . the right to live your life as you, alone, may choose and have an equal place with other men?

You say you've paid your taxes, cast your vote, as law-abiding citizens should do. So did the French.

BUT HOW MUCH DO YOU GIVE OF YOUR OWN LIFE TO KEEP THIS DREAM WE CALL AMERICA ALIVE?

July the Fourth. Birthday of Liberty.

What did YOU suffer in the travail of that birth? What right have YOU to share its miracle?

It Happened July Fourth 1776

By JEAN NEWTON

IT HAPPENED in Independence Hall, at Philadelphia, on July 4, 1776.

On the surface it looked like any New England town hall meeting; but there was an undercurrent of gravity, a pervading sense of the seriousness of the situation.

For these men were about to put their names to a document which would brand them as traitors, outlaws, cause a price to be placed on their heads and their lives to be forfeited

'Sign," requested John Adams, handing the pen to John Hancock, to lead the rest.

Did John Hancock, "the gentleman from Massachusetts" feel the gibbet's rope playing upon his neck?

Did there ring in his mind's ears the echo of the falling axe?

"Better sign, John," murmured Benjamin Franklin. "We must all hang together. Or," he added grimly, 'assuredly we shall all hang separately.'

Thoughtfully, John Hancock studied the last paragraph of the fateful paper before him, a statement prepared by his friend Tom Jefferson, of Virginia.

'We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declared that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent States they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

John Hancock pulled out a handkerchief, touched his moist forehead, flicked it snappily at his silk-stockinged legs to shoo away the insects, and with a bold hand started to sign the Declaration of Independence

'The King of England," he remarked as he finished the final letter with a flourish, "can read my signature without his spectacles."

Health And Diet

Fresh Vitamins Spur Appetite

—By DR. CLENDENING

Do vitamins affect the appetite?

A diet high in fresh vitamin foods certainly is a good stimulant to the appetite, that is why it is a good thing to start a meal with a raw fruit or fruit juice.

Vitamins B and C seem to be the ones which are the most effective appetite stimulators. Vitaman B complex is also good for many symptoms of functional digestive disturbances. Flatulence, abdominal distress alternating constipation and diarrhea, constipation and diarrhea only, and skeletal pain have been found to be relieved by Vitamin B. It is said to be better than any of the other methods in use, such as careful dieting or administration of antispasmodics and sedatives.

Brewer's yeast is a good source of Vitamin B and can be given in this concentrated form between meals and before meals for many forms of functional digestive disturbance. The dosage is two teaspoonfuls of a watery mixture of yeast.

Dangerous Vitality.

What are pep tablets?

"Pep tablets" is the name given by college students, I understand, to benzedrine sulphate tablets. These are supposed to increase mental activities and are used sometimes for taking examinations and even by ill-advised coaches to pep up their athletic teams. It's a dangerous practice.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—For Senator Bob Taft and his desperately battling floor managers, the inside story of those last hours of balloting at the GOP convention is a tragedy of unrealized "ifs." There were four crucial moments when one of these "ifs" might have changed the outcome of the dramatic tug-of-war.

The first was during the 7 to 8:30 p. m. recess between the second and third ballots. Taft's managers frantically tried to get hold of Joe Pew, Pennsylvania boss, who privately had voiced determined opposition to Willkie. A swing of even part of the large Keystone delegation to Taft on the next ballot would have had tremendous psychological effect on the teetering convention.

This was the crucial interval when all the leaders were furiously engaged in behind-the-scenes parleys. But Pew was nowhere to be found. Finally a telephone call revealed that he was at home—taking a bath and having a bite to eat, with the servants under strict orders not to disturb him.

The second heart-breaker came during the third ballot, on which Taft made a gain of only nine as against 88 for Willkie. Senator Arthur Vandenberg telephoned the tense Taft headquarters and declared he was ready to do anything to help his senate colleague. Taft leaders were jubilant, expecting the Michigan vote to come to them on the next count.

But when Michigan did bolt Vandenberg, it did so on the sixth ballot and went to Willkie to give his roaring stampede the push it needed to send him over the top

Note—Next day one Taft lieutenant remarked bitterly, regarding unfulfilled senatorial promises of support, "They were like Chamberlain, too late and too little." Among the senators who had promised to deliver but didn't were John Thomas of Idaho and John Townsend of Delaware.

Candidate Hoover.

HERBERT HOOVER was the third disappointment for the Taftites. He too had expressed opposition to Willkie and preference for Taft But when the Ohioan went to him and asked for his backing, Hoover replied, in effect, "I will if I can't get anywhere myself."

Surrounded by a group of intimates, the ex-president believed that the convention would deadlock and give him an excellent chance to emerge as a dark horse. Taft managers tried to convince him the convention would not deadlock, and that if he was going to exert his influence it must come in the early balloting.

Hoover refused to budge, claiming a bloc of 24 certain votes in the California delegation. The Taft men denied this, offering to poll the delegates to prove they were for Taft. But Hoover stuck to his ambition—and another "if" went up the flue for Taft.

Too-Late Dewey.

THE biggest Taft disappointment was Tom Dewey's dalliance. Had he thrown his weight to Taft on the third ballot, as he was frantically urged to do, Dewey might have changed the tide. But, still hoping against hope that somehow his crumbling lines would hold, he delayed, and then it was too late. He no longer had anything to deliver.

However, when the young New Yorker did finally make up his mind, he went the limit in trying to stop Willkie

After the third ballot a direct tie-up was established between Taft and Dewey. An open telephone line was set up between them and the two Taft lieutenants, Dan Hanna, publisher of the Cleveland News and grandson of the late Mark Hanna, and Tom Bowers. Taft's brother-in-law, went to the Dewey headquarters to act as liaison.

After Dewey dropped 65 votes on the fourth ballot, he decided to dash to the convention floor and make a personal plea to his supporters to swing to Taft. Dewey had his hat on and was rushing for the elevator when the fifth ballot got under way and the dramatic plan was torpedoed.

He then telephoned Hoover and in blunt language urged him to declare for Taft. "If this man (Willkie) is going to be stopped," Dewey barked, "we've got to forget our personal ambitions and unite against him. There is going to be no deadlock. It's now or never."

Dewey also sent three messages to the Wisconsin delegation, which he had won in a primary fight with Vandenberg, to swing to Taft. But for some mysterious reason Secretary of State Fred Zimmerman, who headed the delegation, refused to be "released." On one occasion he brusquely shoved aside a Dewey messenger. Later, Zimmerman plumped the delegation for Willkie

* * *

Vice Presidency.

A LEADING consideration in the behind-the-scenes councils that led to the choice of Senator McNary for Willkie's running mate was some very revealing arithmetic

Studying the ballot returns, the leaders found that the eleven Far Western states with 130 delegates, had given Willkie, right up to the moment of the stampede on the last ballot only 58 votes. Starting with 17 from this bloc, he had been able to boost the vote only to 36 on the fifth ballot.

Party chiefs did not miss the political significance of these figures, and decided that McNary, Oregonian public power advocate, champion of the farmer, had to be on the ticket

Note—Early that morning, members of the Kansas delegation asked Ohioans to support a boom for Representative Cliff Hope, Kansas farm leader. Replied the Ohioans caustically, "Hope's a good man. We've got nothing against him. But why come to us now? Didn't you make a deal on this when you swung to Willkie?"

* * *

Willkie Stopped.

THE "stop Willkie" movement proved unavailing at the convention, but there was one occasion when the dynamic candidate was halted A Philadelphia traffic cop did the trick.

Walking to his hotel during an afternoon rush hour, Willkie, deeply engrossed in thought, was suddenly jerked up by a shout: "Hey, you! Don't you see that light? It ain't green, is it?"

The man who 36 hours later was to be the GOP standard bearer looked at the light and smiling said, "No, it's not Sorry."

"All right, move along then," was the retort. "See that it doesn't happen again. Next time I'll give you a ticket."

Harvest-Time Rains

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AND STILL IT RAINS! Before daylight, from a seemingly clear sky, a heavy shower spilled upon our low-built roof, as hard as hail. More followed, until the downpour was like a cloudburst. Deep thunder rolled, and rattled the window panes. In the early light, I saw a foot-high layer of mist and rain along the surface of the road and lawn. It seemed a heavenly time to be abed and listen to the pelting, dripping liquid sounds — to lie and sniff the cool moist freshness of the air.

Yesterday was clear and cool. Early in the day I saw the neighbors cutting heavy swaths of red-topped clover and white, streaked alsike. The sun was hot and cured the new cut grass. By midafternoon long graceful curving windrows made dark bands around the outside of the blooming fields. But at evening not a single jag had been hauled in by the anxious farmers, for watery sap was in the heavy stems and the soil beneath was damp from earlier rains. The hay did not dry thoroughly.

A farmer from over among the hills went by and gloomily asked me "When d'ye think it'll stop a-rainin'" I cut six acres o' the finest mixed hay I ever saw and had it ready for the loader. It mighta made beter'n two tons to the acre. But if this rain keeps on it won't be worth no more'n straw. My cornfield, too, is washin' like all heck. It seemed, when I went along the lower border, that the best of the land was piled down along the fence."

My nearest neighbor hauled one small load he had cut five days ago. "I had to haul that much, wet or dry, for feed," he said. "Tain't no good — only it'll give the horses roughage when I work 'em. I leave 'em out on pasture most o' the time, these days."

Along our village street I overheard two farmers talking. "Well, Sam," said one, "we got a great crop o' hay, but it seems the good Lord don't favor us none in gettin' it into the barn. I got in two loads in the last five days and that got wet twice and nigh a third time."

"I reckon this rainy season's cost me $300," observed the other. 'I haven't seen the like of it since 1913 but we lived through that and I reckon we will again. It always seems the troubles facin' us is worse 'n them that's over and nigh forgotten."
